SAYS MRS. CROKER LIVED IN HIS HOME AS MRS. MARONE

Richard Davies of Northampton, Mass., Testifies Woman Was Introduced by Marone as His Wife.

LIVED TOGETHER IN 1911, HE ASSERTS

Mrs. Richard Croker Jr., on Stand, States Elder Mrs. Croker Once Called Richard Jr. a Liar.

By the Associated Press.
DUBLIN, June 12.—A point of tense interest was reached in the Croker case today when Richard Davies of Northampton, Mass., took the stand and testified that the woman pointed out to him in court as Mrs. Bula Croker, widow of Richard Croker, was known to him in Northampton as the wife of Guy R. Marone. The Marones had lived at his house, he declared.

Davies testified that Marone, whom he understood to be a tailor, rented a room at his home in 1908 and lived there for three years except for brief periods each summer. In the autumn of 1911 the witness was introduced by Marone to a woman whom he called Mrs. Marone and they occupied the room until the following December. The witness saw them nearly every day and conversed with both. They called each other husband and wife, and the witness heard Marone introducing her as his wife to other friends.

Davies said he saw the couple in Northampton many times, until the summer of 1912. The next time he saw the woman she was in an automobile in Grafton street, Dublin. Mrs. Richard Croker Jr., testified that Mrs. Bula Croker at a family conference prior to Richard Croker's death, had called Richard Jr. a liar.

Identifies Woman in Court.
Davies said he recognized Mrs. Bula Croker in court as the woman introduced to him as Mrs. Marone. He testified that he had made no arrangement with Richard Croker Jr. to be paid any money on the result of the trial.

On cross-examination Davies said Marone was an Italian, about 30 years of age. He had never given him his name. He saw Marone two years ago, but he did not ask him his name. He saw Marone at the same address as a witness, and Davies gave them notice to leave. The witness said he had turned over to James Edward Carter, an investigator, a photograph of Mrs. Marone. Questioned in regard to the activities of Mrs. Marone who in Northampton, he said her only occupation that he observed was a few days' service as an assistant in a book store.

Davies was the first witness for the intervenor in the case, Mrs. Ethel C. White, who alleges that Bula Croker was already the wife of a man when she went through the marriage ceremony with Croker. Mrs. White is one of the Croker children who are seeking to break the last will in favor of Mrs. Bula Croker. Mrs. Annie Davies of Northampton testified to letting the room in the Davies home to Marone in 1908. In October, 1911, Marone brought a woman there and introduced her as his wife. She identified Mrs. Bula Croker in court today as the woman she knew as Mrs. Marone and was positive on the point.

Charles W. Swift of Northampton testified he had employed Marone as a ladies' tailor. Swift identified Bula as Mrs. Marone. Attorney Addis of Northampton also testified to meeting Marone and his wife, living in the home of the Bingham, adjacent to his in June, 1912. Marone's wife, he said, talked frequently, telling him her history, saying she was an Indian Princess, and that she had studied elocution.

Addis positively identified Bula in court as Mrs. Marone. Howard Croker on Stand.
Prior to this testimony Howard Croker, on cross-examination, denied that he had attempted to arrange with his sister, Florence, to contest the will before their father's death. He said he had expressed the belief at the Palm Beach trial of the case that his father was incapable of transacting business, although he was not "out of his mind." The witness denied doing anything to influence the testimony of the witnesses from Northampton and Moncton, N. B.

Mrs. Richard Croker Jr. also was cross-examined. She contradicted Mrs. Bula Croker's account of the scene on her first visit to the Savoy Hotel, New York City. She said

JESS WILLARD SAVES LIVES OF WOMEN AND ANIMALS IN FLOOD

Boxer's Size Enables Him to Go Into Deep Pools to Make Rescues at Ranch.

By the Associated Press.
OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., June 12.—Heavy flood damage was suffered at the 101 Ranch near Ponca City. Col. Joe Miller estimated the damage at the ranch at at least a quarter million dollars. Three thousand hogs, 10,000 chickens, in addition to horses, mules, ostriches and other animals, were lost in the flood. All employees on the ranch sought refuge in the white house, the only building that was not inundated. Two hundred whites, Indians and negroes crowded into the big structure with many hogs, thousands of chickens, bears, monkeys, baby elk and an ostrich rescued from the waters. Thrilling rescues at the ranch were effected by Jess Willard, former heavyweight boxing champion. The big Kansan waded into pools rescuing women and children and livestock, where smaller men would have gone under. In one instance he stripped himself of his clothing and went down into deep water to cut loose two horses that had become entangled in barbed wire. Willard plowed through the water from 3 o'clock yesterday morning until well past midnight.

LADY ASTOR SAYS SHE FOUND PLENTY OF IGNORANT 'M. P.'S.

Need for "More Women, and Still More Women" in Commons, She Declares.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, June 12.—Lady Astor, speaking at a reception in honor of the three women members of the House of Commons, said in referring to new member, Mrs. Hilton Phillips: "If she does not know much, she need not be afraid, for she will find that some of her fellow 'M. P.'s know less. Before I went to the Commons, I was appalled at my ignorance, but I found that others were ignorant than myself."

Nevertheless, Lady Astor admitted that "the house as a whole consists of a splendid type of men." There was need, however, for "more women, and still more women," in the Commons, she declared.

SPEEDY TRIAL FOR MURDER

Slayer of New York Nurse May Face Jury Within a Week.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 12.—A speedy trial was indicated yesterday for Eugenio Lozada, the Filipino butler, who was arrested Friday night while trying to dispose of the body of Miss Hlooson Martin, nurse, who was employed with him in the residence of Dr. George McCulliffe, 28 West Eighty-seventh street. Assistant District Attorney Ryan began grand jury proceedings by calling Dr. George McCulliffe of the same address as a witness, and District Attorney Banton said his office would be ready to put the Filipino on trial for the murder within a week or two. Early in the day Lozada was held without bail by Magistrate House in the homicide court. When a guard undertook to handcuff him the Filipino bit the officer's left hand.

CATERPILLAR ARMY REINFORCED

Railroad Ties in Oregon Covered by a Coat of Moss.

CORVALLIS, Ore., June 12.—The caterpillar army invading this region, threatened with defeat from its natural enemy, a parasite fly, has brought up its reserves by day. As a result, its strength is greater than at any time since its vanguard began delaying trains last week.

A train, which normally requires 12 minutes to traverse a grade now requires an hour and 15 minutes, so quickly did the reinforced besiegiers invest the right-of-way. Fence posts and ties were so thickly covered with the caterpillars that they looked as though they were overgrown by a coat of moss.

HARDING MAY SUGGEST MODIFYING SHIP LIQUOR LAW

Increasing Indications That He Will Go Before Congress in Effort to Find Solution of Problem.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 12.—There were increasing indications in high official circles here today that President Harding might ask Congress, when it reassembled next fall, to modify the prohibition law as it affects the carrying of liquor on board foreign vessels in American waters. The President was said to believe that Congress never intended the government to be confronted with the situation it now is called upon to meet by the objections of foreign powers in regard to the new rigorous ship liquor ban.

In the present circumstances, it was added, Mr. Harding sees no possible course open to him but to enforce to the letter the Volstead Act as it recently was interpreted by the Supreme Court. He believed that no executive regulation he could issue could properly modify application of the court's opinion, and that only an act of Congress would be sufficient.

Vigorous Fight Likely.
Should the administration decide to make such a recommendation, when Congress reassembles in December it is regarded as certain that one of the most vigorous fights in the history of the prohibition movement would result. Since the Supreme Court rendered today its opinion extending the Volstead law to foreign ships in American ports, both wets and dries have been canvassing the situation with a view to possible effort to change the law, and both have declared themselves encouraged over the outlook.

With the weight of the administration thrown into the balance on the side of modifications, and with the dry leaders, who previously have to a large degree controlled the legislative situation, fighting such a proposal, the result might be a long

SHIP PASSENGERS MUST MEASURE THEIR THIRST IN ADVANCE OF SAILING

(Copyright, 1923.)
LONDON, June 12.—The White Star Line is giving passengers blanks that they may fill in telling how much liquor they will need on the voyage to the United States. However, it is said at the company's offices this system is intended to aid the company to determine how much liquor ships shall carry and it is not meant that only those who fill in blanks can get liquor.

To be sure of getting liquor this form must be filled out three days in advance of sailing. Many passengers sailing on the Majestic "Wednesday" made out the new form, but according to company officials some indignantly refused to fill it out, presumably will go without liquor or take their own aboard.

Two Liters of Wine "Too Much," Say Health Service Officials.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 12.—The United States Public Health Service, designated by the Treasury Department to fix the amount of liquor to be allowed crews of foreign ships which sailed for this port before the new prohibition regulations became effective June 10, refused today to grant a permit for the release to sailors on the French line steamer Paris of the two liters (a little more than two quarts) of wine prescribed as a ration by French law.

A. Bordes, New York manager for the line, said the public health officials had informed him that two liters was "entirely too much" wine for medical purposes. They promised to fix a quantity to be released later, but assured him, he said, that it "would be far below two liters per man."

'DRY' BOAT ATTACKED BY RIVER FLEET

Government Vessel, However, Beats Off Assaultants and Brings Prize Into Port.

By the Associated Press.
DETROIT, Mich., June 12.—A boat of the "dry navy" limped into port late yesterday, taking on water through leaks in bow and stern, but none the less a victory in the first clash with the "mosquito fleet" of the Detroit River rum runners.

It was the Government speed boat P-102, with a launch containing 100 cases and 20 kegs of beer in tow, that battered her way through 100 rum speed boats that harassed her, snatched at her prize and attempted to sink her until G. A. Vandusen in the Government boat sent them scurrying for cover with several shots from his revolver.

Skipper Escapes.
The rum laden launch had made a dash for the Detroit River, a Canadian waters to "Hogan's Alley," a favorite American terminal for contraband liquor at Ecorse. The rum boat beat the P-102 to the shore, but her skipper did not have time to tie up to the dock before the P-102 was alongside. The rum boat skipper escaped.

Vandusen had taken the launch in tow and was starting up the river with it when the "mosquito fleet" appeared. The rum boat swarmed on every side. The speedier craft of the attacking fleet would dash straight at the P-102 and then "skid," nearly upsetting both boats. A long gray rum boat, faster than the others, pursued these harassing tactics for a while then, becoming bolder, dashed straight into the P-102, ramming her full astern and opening a seam in the "dry" boat.

The gray craft returned to the attack a moment later, ramming the P-102 head on, jamming the metal bow of the Government boat and splitting a plank forward just above the water line.

Fires at Rum Boats.
Vandusen drew his revolver and fired at the gray craft, whereupon her skipper fled, followed by the rum running armada. Plainly shown the marks of battle, and partly awash with leaks resulting from the encounter, the boat reached the Federal docks, her prize, the seized rum launch, abeam. The launch was barely afloat, partly because of its heavy damage and partly because of the water taken on during the fight.

Would Repeal Wisconsin Dry Act.
By the Associated Press.
MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 12.—Without a dissenting vote, the City Council yesterday passed a resolution, urging the State Legislature to repeal the prohibition enforcement act, and praising Gov. A. J. Smith of New York for signing the repeal of the Mullan-Gage law.

PEASANT REVOLT IN BULGARIA SAID TO BE SPREADING

Dispatches to Sofia Indicate Large Forces of Agrarians Are in Arms Against New Regime.

FIGHTING REPORTED; RESERVES CALLED

Government Force of 10,000 Surrounded, Capital Hears; Ousted Premier Expected to March on the City.

By the Associated Press.
BELGRADE, June 12.—Peasant revolts against the new Bulgarian regime are reported throughout the country, dispatches from Sofia say. In the neighborhood of Plevna the revolt has assumed serious proportions. It is declared, and a government force of 10,000 is said to have been surrounded. Fresh troops have been dispatched to this locality.

Dispatches say that the Government has ordered the mobilization of all reserve officers and of several young classes. Volunteers are being armed.

Messages to newspapers here say the peasant revolt has been started by Alexander Boteff, former president of the Sobranje, and Nedelka Athanasoff, former minister of communications, who has fled from the capital and raised a force of 7000 peasants in the neighborhood of Radomir, where fighting has occurred against the Government troops.

It is rumored here that the Bulgarian minister at Prague, M. Baskaloff, is preparing to return to Bulgaria to help the Agrarian party against the new government; also that former Premier Stamboulsky is preparing to march on the capital at the head of 20,000 peasants.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, June 12.—Former Premier Stamboulsky of Bulgaria has been arrested by his military bodyguard, according to a report published by the newspaper Prager Presse.

LONDON, June 12.—The overthrow of the Stamboulsky Government in Bulgaria was planned for the end of June, according to the Times' Vienna correspondent, who quotes a dispatch received by the Neue Wiener Tagblatt. It was hurried, however, to forestall the great agrarian congress which Stamboulsky had arranged to be held in Sofia to impress the capital with the strength of the agrarian party. It was intended to have 200,000 persons attend the congress and 20,000 of Stamboulsky's "Orange Guards" were to have been concentrated in Sofia, armed from the Government elements after having taken an oath of allegiance to the projected new Constitution.

SOPIA, June 12.—The Zankoff Government has issued a manifesto in which it "solemnly declares it is ready to execute loyally the Versailles treaty stipulations with respect to the dignity of the great Powers." Bulgaria, adds the manifesto, "is absolutely opposed to any sort of warlike adventure."

WOMAN DROWNS SELF AT SEA

Head of New York Millinery Firm Leaps From Liner.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 12.—Mrs. Herbert Taylor, head of the fashionable millinery and dress establishment of Louis & Co., leaped to death from the steamship Adriatic off Nantucket Island Saturday night, the White Star Line announced today.

Mrs. Taylor sailed from this port on one of her regular European trips at noon Saturday.

The firm of Louis & Co. had a recent and large area was laid waste by a typhoon on the island of Samar, according to telegrams received today from consular headquarters there.

The reports said that in seven towns 95 per cent of the houses were blown down. Those in the devastated region were subsiding today on unripe coconuts and green palm leaves. Telegraph and telephone lines were down.

Six boats were sunk in Samar province, according to advices at the executive bureau in Manila. In Alibay province, 500 houses are down.

ST. LOUIS-ST. PAUL STEAMER IS HALTED BY LOW WATER

"Harry G. Drees" Unable to Get Within 25 Miles of Minnesota Port, Will Start Back Today.

By the Associated Press.
ST. PAUL, Minn., June 12.—The steamer Harry G. Drees, en route from St. Louis to St. Paul on a trip which marks the revival of river traffic between the two cities after seven years, is unable to reach this port because of low water. It was announced at the office of the River Transit Co. here today.

The boat reached Hastings, about 25 miles south of here, late yesterday, but was unable to come farther. It attempted to reach St. Paul early today, but after ramming a sandbar several times gave up and returned to Hastings. The steamer was drawing 38 inches of water.

ALL FOREIGN CAPTIVES OF BRIGANDS IN CHINA FREED

Eight of Prisoners, Held at the Paotzu Stronghold of Outlaws Since Raid on Shanghai Express on May 6, Were Released Today.

POWELL AND PINGER TWO OF 4 AMERICANS

News That Last of Alien Hostages Have Been Turned Loose Expected to Ease Tense Situation Involving China's Foreign Relations.

By the Associated Press.
TSAOCHWANG, June 12.—The last of the foreigners, eight in number, held captive by Chinese bandits were released today. They have been held at the Paotzu stronghold of the outlaws since they were taken from the Shanghai-Peking express train near Suhow, May 6.

They are:
Americans.
Maj. Roland W. Pinger, U. S. A., ordnance department, Manila; home Berkeley, Cal.
Leon Friedman, Brevoort Hotel, Chicago, owner of China Motors Corporation, Shanghai.
John B. Powell, Hannibal, Mo., publisher of Weekly Review, Shanghai.
Leo Solomon, San Francisco, Shanghai agent of the Block company of San Francisco.

Fred Elias, broker, Shanghai.
Reginald W. Rowlett, Birmingham, England, manager Reis & Co., Tientsin.

French.
Emile Gensberger, broker, Shanghai.

Italian.
B. D. Musso, Shanghai, lawyer, capitalist, adviser to the Chinese Government.

News of the release promised to relieve the tense atmosphere enveloping China's foreign relations since May 6.
The score of more foreigners first taken into the hills diminished gradually, as the bandits released them, one or two at a time until only the eight were held. These were the hostages detained until the Chinese Government should meet the bandits' demands. The bandits did not ask for money, but their principal condition was that they be enrolled in the regular army. The representatives of the Peking Government began mustering in the bandits more than a week ago.

The first two weeks of the foreigner captivity was fraught with alarm for their safety, because of the constant threats of the bandits to execute their prisoners if the pursuing Chinese troops were not withdrawn and the bandits' terms complied with. Later, however, the bandits showed a more conciliatory attitude and decided they would give the intermediaries time to complete their work. Nevertheless, the foreign Government involved and their diplomatic representatives in Peking continued to display keen anxiety and increasing pressure was applied to the Chinese Government to effect the release of the captives at the earliest opportunity.

Commission Still on Ground.
While the diplomatic corps did not interfere with the measures taken by the Peking Government, it stood ready to help and sent to Tsoochwang an international commission headed by Brigadier-General W. D. Connor, United States Army, to investigate all phases of banditry in Shantung Province.

The commission still is on the ground. Roy Anderson, an American with long experience in Chinese affairs, was the principal intermediary between the brigands and the Chinese Government. Although his capacity was unofficial, he was trusted implicitly by both sides and guaranteed to the bandits that the Chinese Government would carry out its promise.

A large number of Chinese captives remained on Paotzu Mountain at latest advices. Negotiations for their release are proceeding, however.

Mexican Laborers Moving North.
By the Associated Press.
ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 12.—More than 25,000 Mexican and negro laborers have been transported out of Texas to Northern and Eastern states since March 1, according to reports from labor agencies throughout the State. J. B. Myers, State Labor Commissioner, announced yesterday.

LAWYER ADVISED MRS. TODD TO KEEP PROPERTY CONTROL

Letters Written by Former Judge Leo Rassieur Introduced by Plaintiffs in Will Contest.

CRITICISED EFFORTS OF CHURCH WORKERS

Elderly Woman Wrote She Was "Wild About" Plan
by Which She Received Annuity for Chinese School Gifts.

Counsel for relatives of Mrs. Mary Caroline Todd, taking advantage of cross-examination privileges, are bringing into evidence letters written by former Judge Leo Rassieur to his client, the introduction of which is claimed to show that the Methodist Church Board of Foreign Missions and the St. Louis Humane Society strove mightily to win a bequest from her.

Mrs. Todd's kin are suing to break her will on the ground that she was suffering from senile dementia and was influenced when she left a bequest for a home for dumb animals here, and her home in Daytona Beach, valued at $15,000 to the Methodist Church.

The will was written in 1917, three years before her death, at the age of 80. In directing the bequest for a haven for homeless cats and other animals, Mrs. Todd did not name the Humane Society as the agent, but asked that a corporation be formed to build the home.

Rassieur's Warning.
In a letter dated Oct. 1, 1919, and replied to by Rassieur in St. Louis to Mrs. Todd at Daytona Beach he took occasion to condemn bitterly the efforts of the Methodist Church workers to get her property.

"These people are trying to get all you have," he warned her.
"They are mto think they already have a claim upon your estate and upon the estate of Albert Todd. It is time to call a halt and tell them they have no such claim."

In 1917 Mr. Todd had given the Foreign Missions Board $10,000 and had accepted in return annuity bonds yielding 10 per cent interest.
After Mrs. Todd's death the board sought to revert to the board at her death.

Later, in 1918, she invested another $10,000 similarly. Recalling this in letters to Rassieur in 1919 she expressed great pleasure with the plan.

"I do not like this annuity plan," he wrote her on Nov. 14, 1919. "No one can tell how long you will live.
If you live long, your property to pass beyond your control would seriously endanger you. Take the advice of those who have your welfare at heart rather than that of comparative strangers."

Interview With Dieckman.
The Humane Society apparently did not figure in negotiations until Jan. 23, 1919, when Rassieur advised Mrs. Todd of an interview he had with George E. Dieckman, president, of the Humane Society.

"I do not think it right to take half your property while you are alive and able to enjoy it. He said the missions board should hold the same opinion."

Rassieur seems to have been won over to the Humane Society's side, for within a few weeks he wrote:
"A bequest to the Humane Society will be respected in St. Louis as the state of Missouri, and for the charitable institutions. The society will be admirably fitted to carry out your wishes regarding an annual shelter. Dr. Dieckman spoke to me about this matter and he has promised in your will in which you asked to this end and mention the Humane Society by name. I told him I could not give such advice, but I would have him advise you and you and Mr. Dieckman and yourself."

While before Mrs. Todd's attorney had written again, and with evident bitterness concerning the activities of the Methodist Church.

"Makes Me Angry."
"What they say about your 'manifest intention' of leaving all your property to the China school makes me angry. You should have a clear understanding that this is not your manifest intention."

Rassieur went on to explain in the letter that the school Mrs. Todd built in Gnu Cheng, South China, would not need a large endowment and would be helped by people of the country. He advised her to believe that under the present terms of her will she would have only $45,000 to devote to her animal shelter and this could be barely sufficient to launch the project.

During cross-examination in previous days of testimony the plaintiffs have brought out that Methodist ministers and Dieckman made a trip to Daytona Beach. Mrs. Todd spoke of the various business of Dieckman to a niece, saying, "He came before I was ready for him."

This line of evidence is being pursued in an effort of plaintiffs counsel to support the allegation that Mrs. Todd was influenced.

Rassieur's Testimony.
Rassieur has been on the stand since Saturday morning as defense witness. He has been questioned concerning the various business ventures in which Mrs. Todd was engaged. Plaintiffs' lawyers drew evidence from him that he had not been informed of every step.

Mrs. Todd took the home at Daytona Beach having been purchased without his knowledge.

In direct examination of the witness, Charles M. Hay, defense attorney, produced a letter written by Mrs. Todd, Feb. 2, 1919, about a year before her death and two years after she made her will. This letter, he argued through questions, showed her sanity, and he announced intention to report of stating it in his closing argument today. The letter, written to Rassieur, follows:

Ever since Albert Todd passed on I have lived a most strenuous life. With my mind, I have been building for myself an estate, and with my kind assistance, and my self-denial had moderate success.

"Long for Rest."
"And an tired, Judge, oh so tired, and long for rest. I have worked so hard and so long. I do so want rest, rest the remainder of my life. My work in China has afforded me much pleasure in the good it has done and is doing. I am tasting that most sweetness anyway."

I wish you were acquainted with the Board at New York—some of the bishops—for then I think your objections would be removed.
Dr. Forbes, I believe to be all right or the church would not have him in its position.

Judge Rassieur, I think I should think there are three great points in this annuity agreement.

Firstly, I shall be relieved of the care of my estate and at the same time means flowing to me from my own work. I think that will be heaven on earth.

Secondly, I shall while in this life see where my hard-earned savings will do on and on to and through eternity.

To me it seems high, holy and grand. I am wild about it, although I want your approval first, Judge. As it is I am going down hill fast and this change would resuscitate me and save me ere I reach the bottom.

You do not know and cannot realize what a condition I am in and would appreciate I've got to be relieved of the care of my property.

The plaintiffs through cross-examination by Charles A. Hovey brought out that the care of her property which Mrs. Todd thought such a burden amounted only to receipt of income payments.

Although the terms of Mrs.
Todd's will provide about $60,000 for an animal home, cash conversion of assets and the expenses of litigation, including the fees of eight lawyers, will reduce this to about $35,000, Dieckman told a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday. He said this amount "would do very nicely as a building fund for an animal shelter."

"We would plan a building to take the place of the city dog pound and I believe the city would let us start catching dogs again," said Dieckman. "The shelter would

HORNSBY NOT TO CONTEST WIFE'S SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Baseball Star Enters General Denial of Charges That He Was Quarrelsome and Indifferent.

STATEMENT TONIGHT LIKELY, HE INDICATES

Petition Does Not Mention
Letter Which John A. Hine Alleges That Ball Player Wrote to His Wife.

Rogers Hornsby, star second baseman of the St. Louis "Cardinals," said today that he would not contest the divorce suit filed last evening by his wife, Mrs. Sarah E.
Hornsby.

He has entered an appearance in the case, together with a general denial of his wife's charges. The divorce case was heard this afternoon and taken under advisement for 10 days by Judge Hogan.

Hornsby said he probably would make a statement this evening, after he and Mrs. Hornsby had had a conference. This conference presumably has to do with questions concerning property rights and Mrs.
Hornsby's request for alimony. She is at the Chase Hotel. Hornsby is at the Jefferson.

Mrs. Hornsby's petition for divorce makes no mention of the affective letter which figures in the motion of John A. Hine, automobile salesman, 1344 Bayard avenue, to have set aside the divorce decree granted Feb. 29, to his former wife, Miss Jeanette Pennington of 1140
Union boulevard.

Mrs. Hornsby merely alleges indifference. She charges that her husband, during the last two years, was quarrelsome and fault finding, that he refused to take her to places of amusement and was indifferent to her. She asks alimony in a lump sum and custody of their son, Rogers Hornsby Jr., 24 years old.

Hine's motion alleged that his wife's divorce was obtained on false testimony and that it was set aside he would show that he, not his wife, was the injured party. A copy of a letter of endorsement to Hine's former wife, signed "Rogers," and alleged by Hine's attorney to have been written by Hornsby from training camp last spring, was introduced in court.
The motion is pending.

When the letter was made public,
Mrs. Hornsby was with her mother, Mrs. C. Martin, at Los Angeles.
She came to St. Louis a few days later. Soon after the letter was made public, Hornsby said he knew nothing about the Hine case, but would present his defense.

Hornsby last year led the National League in batting and was the home run champion of both major leagues. His salary is generally believed to be graded from $17,500 up, according to his success as a batter. The sum named is the minimum he is to receive this year. He is receiving treatment for an injury to his knee which is temporarily keeping him from playing.

The Hornsbys were married in Philadelphia Dec. 2, 1918, and separated in St. Louis Dec. 27, 1932. Both are Texans.

AL SMITH, IN CHICAGO, SAYS POLITICS WON'T MAR VACATION

New York Governor Declares Only Engagement for Today Is for Game of Golf.

CHICAGO, June 12.—Gov. Al
Smith of New York, who arrived in Chicago yesterday on his way to French Lick Springs for a vacation, dressed party politics and politics to the guest of Charles Fitzsimons, former Superintendent of Police, at a small dinner party and the theater last night.

He stated that no business, official or otherwise, would mar his vacation, a game of golf being his sole engagement before departing tonight on his private car.

While Gov. Smith was in the city yesterday the Judiciary Committee of the City Council recommended for passage Alderman John J. "Bath-house" Coughlin's resolution commending Gov. Smith for signing the prohibition enforcement repeal bill in New York State and urging the repeal of the search of Gov. Smith by the Illinois Legislature.

ICE WAGON DRIVERS' HOLD OUT

Men Reject $1.50 Wage Increase, Demanding $5.

The rejection by the ice wagon drivers of the employers' offer of $1.50 a week increase has placed this wage controversy where it was more than a month ago, when the men first made their demand for a $35 a week wage scale. The Joint Committee of employers and union members, which has been meeting from time to time during the controversy, will again take up the question Thursday.

The drivers have indicated their intention to hold out for the $5 increase. The employers have refused to meet this demand, contending it will raise the price of ice, perhaps $1 on 3000 pounds. The decision of the Joint Committee will be submitted to the drivers at their weekly meeting Saturday. About 1100 men are affected.

Catches 198-Pound Catfish.

One of the biggest catches of fish on the lower Missouri River in recent years was made yesterday by James Rowe of St. Charles. Moon nets had set near a caving bank on the east side of the river, near the St. Charles road bridge, imprisoned three blue channel "cats" having a combined weight of 337 pounds. The largest fish weighed 198 pounds, the other two, 85 and 54 pounds.

Parisian Actresses Leading Bid-

Other Ornaments.

PARIS, June 12.—Even in death Sarah Bernhardt has not lost the power to astound. The three-day sale of her personal effects began yesterday and every article brought three or four times as much as the auctioneer hoped for. The sale-room was crowded and the auctioner had to exclude customers.

The spectators watched with almost religious awe while the famous Paris auctioneer, Laler Dubruell, held up the first shining object.

firm voice of a woman, evidently an actress. The audience held its breath as one bid followed another. At last the tin bracelet which the Bernhardt estate hoped to sell for a small venal hunter for $17 was knocked down at $100 to Mlle. Marie Mar-quand of the Comedie Francaise.

CIVIC BODIES TO MEET ON PLASTERERS' DISPUTE

Contractors Arranging for Discussion With Business Men;
Some Workers Reported Back

Arrangements for a meeting with representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations are being made by the Contracting Plasterers' Association in an effort to reach an equitable settlement of the journeymen plasterers' walkout yesterday because a demand for an increase to $1.75 from $1.50 an hour was refused by the employers.

"We expect to meet some time this week," F. G. Boyd, secretary of the employers' group, said. "A meeting of employers will be held today with the Master Builders' Association committee. We are making every effort to reach an amicable settlement as soon as is possible."

A member of the plasterers' organization said today that "most of the men are back on the job at $14 a day," and predicted an early re-signment of the new scale. Boyd said the employers had not granted an increase and that members of the employers' association reported no change in the situation.

Rainy weather has prevented the walkout from having any immediate serious effect, plasterers being able to work but little during damp seasons. This fact has been given as another reason why their daily wage should be increased. They point out that they work less than two-thirds of the time because of inclement weather conditions.

As is known, their demand for $14 a day is the wage peak in all building trades in this country. More than 400 men are said to be affected directly here.

This increase recalls the return during the last six months in the building trades to the basic wage scale of $1.25, the peak during the war period. Little difficulty has arisen between employers and workers over the demands, because, primarily, of the unprecedented building boom which has swept the country.

The plasterers were among the first to get an increase above this basic scale. Their scale, going to $1.50 in an agreement made last November. Bricklayers and stone masons also now are paid this wage.

Metal Dispute to Come Up.
A committee of the joint conference of employers and building tradesmen, which met yesterday to discuss the carpenters and sheet metal workers jurisdictional dispute over the right to do metal trim, will discuss a 30-day truce with the national officers of these unions in Indianapolis and Chicago this week.

The conversations yesterday lasted five hours, they will continue to do so, and the committee was finally chosen to endeavor to get acceptance of the truce proposal by the national headquarters of these two unions. At present the men are permitted to do what they claim is their work. Under the proposed truce, where the carpenters are doing the work they will continue to do so, and where the metal men handle it now, there will be no change for 30 days. T. J. McNamara, president of the Building Trades Council, is chairman of the committee.

JURY GIVES WOMAN $17,500

Mrs. Maud Coreux Was Hurt
Alighting From Trolley Car.

Mrs. Maud Coreux, 5110 North Market street, yesterday was awarded $17,500 by a jury in Circuit Judge Miller's Court against the United Railways because of injuries suffered when she fell from a street car at Easton and Hadlam avenues in March 1931. She alleged that the car started as she was alighting and caused her to fall. She was internally injured and suffered shock to spine and nerves. She sued for $50, 000.

danger today by physicians at the dies of the parents and treatment

NEGROES PROTEST AGAINST PARK PICNIC RESTRICTIONS

Spokesman Tells Mayor Granting of Permits for Only Mondays and Thursdays Is Unfair.

A delegation of negroes protested to Mayor Kiel yesterday against the policy of issuing permits to use the parks for negro picnics only on Mondays and Thursdays. The spokesman, the Rev. William Peck of St.
James A. M. E. Church, said the action of the Park Department was not promoting harmony between the races.

The delegation also informed the Mayor that Circuit Judge Hartmann's decision, excluding negroes from the municipal golf links in Forest Park except on Mondays, is inequitable.

Park Commissioner Pape said that he had issued picnic permits to negroes for Mondays and Thursdays because the grounds usually are vacant on those days. The Mayor told the delegation he would see if ne-

ST. LOUIS AWARDED AIR SERVICE UNITS OF NATIONAL GUARD

Recruiting Begun for 110th Observation Squadron and Photo and Air Intelligence Sections.

WILL BE ATTACHED TO 138TH INFANTRY

Enlisted Men Will Elect All of 15 Officers, Except Commandant, Who Will Be Chosen by Those Commissioned.

St. Louis has been awarded the Air Service units of the Thirty-fifth Division of the National Guard, which covers Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska. This is considered a new and important step in the way to making this city the "air central station" of the United States.

Awarding of the National Air Meet and Pulitzer race to St. Louis for next October paved the way for the establishment of a modern, permanent field here for heavier-than-air craft. Scott Field, near Belleville, is the chief lighter-than-air station of the Army Air Service.

The National Guard air units will be located at St. Louis Field, Bridge-ton, where the national air races are to be held. The units are to be: 110th Observation Squadron, 110th Photo Section and 110th Air Intelligence Section. A recruiting office was opened today at headquarters of the St. Louis Air Board, Chamber of Commerce, and a number of applications for entry have been received.

Minimum Personnel.

The minimum personnel will be 101, comprising a Major in command, 14 Captains and Lieutenants and 85 enlisted men, chiefly non-commissioned officers, who will be technical men. About two-thirds of these will be assigned to the Observation Squadron and the remainder will be evenly divided between the other units. Those who enlist will elect all the officers but the commandant, upon being mustered into Federal service, and these officers will choose the Major. For administrative purposes, the units will be attached to the 138th Infantry, National Guard of Missouri, and be supervised by Col. C. S. Thornton, in charge of that regiment.

Land for the units' use will be furnished at St. Louis Field by the St. Louis Aeronautic Corporation, which has a space as necessary will be provided. The permanent portion of the field covers about 200 acres, but enough ground has been leased for the autumn meet to make it a square mile.

Immediately the minimum personnel has been mustered in, which those in charge think will be soon, equipment for the new service here will be obtained.

It is expected that eight De Havilland biplanes of the type DH-4B, standard army equipment, will be furnished by the Government, as well as two steel and concrete hangars, each covering 48x120 feet and 20 feet high; a fully equipped machine shop of 30x10-foot floor area, and all other needed supplies, including uniforms.

Status of Members.

As part of the National Guard the members of the units will be on the same status as guardsmen who are in the infantry or other branches. They will be called to a summer encampment of two weeks each year, and probably will fly there. This may be at Nevada, Mo., or Fort Sill, Ok. This year. They may be called on in peace time for assistance at disasters or in preventing disorder. It is pointed out, for instance, that National Guard aircraft could reconnoiter regions cut off by flood, and that in Minnesota they have spotted forest fires.

The members will be paid for a maximum of 60 drills a year, but these will be periods of instruction in ground work, machine-shop practice, flying, and so forth. Maneuvers of use in war will be taught and bombing and machine-gun firing will likely be directed at targets on the Missouri River near by. Members of the Photo Section will learn to make air pictures for use in war and those in the Intelligence Section will be trained as scouts of the air, and probably will have radio equipment.

Instruction Periods.

Instruction periods will be in the evenings, Saturday afternoons and Sundays. In the event of war the members will be subject to call as are all guardsmen. The Thirty-fifth Division of the National Guard is descendant of the unit of the same designation in which Missouri and Kansas troops went to France.

The units were assigned to Missouri of the three states covered by the division, through the activity of the St. Louis Air Board, Arthur B. Birge, general manager of the St. Louis Aeronautic Corporation, said. That left the choice between St. Louis and several of the other cities of this State to Brigadier-General W. A. Rupp, in command of the National Guard of Missouri. Birge influenced Col. Thornton largely with the choice of St. Louis.

DELANO REPORTS NO DEMAND FOR GENERAL FREIGHT RATE CUT

Head of Rate Readjustment Committee Makes Statement Following Meeting of Body.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 12.—No demand for a general reduction in freight rates appears to exist at the present time, F. A. Delano, chairman of the Rate Schedule Readjustment Committee organized by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, said last night after a meeting of the committee.

The committee is one of five organized by the chamber to work out a program for the systematic development and co-ordination of all forms of transportation facilities.

John Hancock Pens and "Cartridges"
The Store for All the People
In Our Stationery Department (MAIN FLOOR)

Housewives

It used to keep a woman at her work and trying to keep a pen filled and do it without mopping up the overflow or having to go through a long rigmarole with ink bottles and tricky devices. Never again!

SINCE the John Hancock Cartridge Pen came along to lighten up household duties a woman doesn't have to rummage around for the ink bottle or smear up her fingers filling a pen.

She simply slips a clean, sealed ink cartridge of fresh liquid ink into the Cartridge Pen, re-caps it and goes on writing. As simple as it is spotless. Ask the man at the pen counter.

Your Yellowstone NATIONAL PARK

Earth's sublimest Symphony of Color

Where all the colors ever named give the crowning glory to Nature's supreme display of fantastic forms and mysterious action.

Radiant blues, purples, greens and halitopes turn the crystal pools into giant flowers and gems. Marvelous tints adorn the tasseled terraces of hot springs. Rainbows glow in the mist of silvery geysers.

Miraculous yellows, orange, vermillion glorify the majestic Canyon—dizzy Gothic walls where the Great Falls foam down to the emerald river—Nature's master painting.

Make this your Yellowstone year. The route that most people use is via the West Yellowstone entrance—the only way you can make the embracing Yellowstone, Salt Lake City, Great Salt Lake, Ogden Canyon, the Royal Gorge, Colorado Springs, Pikes Peak and Denver—an advantage exclusive to this route. You can do it all in two weeks or stop-over stay just as long as you wish.

Grand Circle Tour for the Price of a Ticket to Yellowstone alone

SAID TO ADMIT KILLING GIRL AFTER SHE JILTED HIM

Filipino Chauffeur Quoted by Youngstown O. Police as Telling of Putting Body in Culvert.

By the Associated Press.
YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 12.— Chris Connell, who, police say, is the author of an anonymous letter threatening him if he did not cease his attentions to Miss Helena Drachman and a note addressed to the police directing them to the culvert where Miss Drachman's body was found, confessed to the murder of the girl, police announced last night.

Connell's alleged confession came after several hours of questioning and after handwriting experts identified the writing of the two notes as that of Connell's. He is said to have killed the girl with a pocket knife.
There were eight stab wounds in her body when it was found in a culvert on a road between Hubbard and Youngstown Friday.

Connell, a Filipino and chauffeur for a Youngstown millionaire, was arrested on suspicion Saturday. He is said to have admitted committing the crime because Miss Drachman refused to marry him. Miss Drachman, a 21-year-old Danish girl, disappeared May 31.

In his alleged confession, Connell is said to have stated that he had been engaged to marry Miss Drachman in October. That on the night of May 31 she had called him by telephone, asking him to meet her at a bus station. They rode until they neared the scene of the murder, where they left the machine. As they walked along, the young woman told Connell that she had changed her mind about the marriage.

In a fit of rage, Connell is declared to have said, he drew his knife and stabbed her half a dozen times. He then took off his linen duster, tied it over her head and thrust the body into the culvert where it remained a week before being found by officers who followed the direction of his note.

KANSAS FLOOD REACHES CREST; 7 PERSONS DEAD

Hundreds of Homeless Being Cared For in Private Homes Damage May Be Millions.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 12.—The crest of the flood waters that for four days have covered the Eastern half of Kansas and Northern Oklahoma, had virtually passed today, leaving a toll of seven known dead, many missing and property damage aggregating several million dollars. Thousands of persons made homeless when the flood swept through their homes were being cared for in public buildings and in private homes.

Railroad service to several cities in Kansas was demoralized and at least two cities were virtually cut off from communication. Six miles of St. Louis-San Francisco tracks south of Arkansas City, Kan., were washed out and all bridges between Arkansas City and Wichita on the Midland Valley were reported gone. Arkansas City, the city hardest hit by the flood of the Arkansas river, was under martial law today. Water was flowing in for the streets and in the lowlands, but relief work was well under way, under the supervision of the Chamber of Commerce. Subscriptions raised in Arkansas City and surrounding Kansas towns were flowing in for the benefit of the flood victims. It was estimated that more than 3000 persons were made homeless in that city. Reports last night said that more than 100 persons were being cared for in public buildings and more than twice that number in private homes. Twenty-five persons were reported unaccounted for. The estimate of damage in Arkansas City was placed at $3,000,000.

Meager reports from Winfield, Kan., almost entirely cut off from the outside world, estimated the damage there at between one and one half million dollars. Many were homeless and being cared for by the Red Cross and other organizations. American Legion members were patrolling the city.

Conditions at Wichita, Kan., where four square miles of the city was flooded to a depth of three feet, were improving rapidly. Property damage there was estimated at more than $1,000,000.

Damage to reach $2,000,000 was caused in Clay County, Oklahoma, to crops, property and livestock lost. Other property losses in Northern Oklahoma were reported to be heavy, with thousands of head of livestock and poultry swept down flooded streams.

Six feet of water flowed down the main business street of Kaw City, Okla., yesterday, while citizens huddled on a hill south of the town. Citizens of Augusta took refuge in elevator lofts, from which they were rescued by boats.

Train service throughout Oklahoma was demoralized as a result of washouts of bridges and tracks in the northern and western parts of the State.

A three-inch rain fell in the region of Rich Hill, Mo., last night, sending streams in that region out of their banks and inundating hundreds of acres of farm lands. Eight hundred yards of Missouri Pacific tracks were washed out by the overflow of Grand river.

Reports from Garden City, Kan., said that the flood danger on the upper Arkansas seemed past and that no further rise was expected. Hundreds of automobile tourists were reported marooned in Garden City.

600 Marooned at College. Six hundred persons attending the Epworth League Institute at Winfield, were marooned on Southwestern College hill. Scores of automobile parties attending the institute probably would be unable to leave for a week, reports said.

Citizens of Augusta, Kan., sent fleeing from their homes with the overflow of the Walnut River, were preparing to go back to their homes today. The flood, the worst in the history of that city, had gone back into the river today, leaving the streets covered with a mass of mud and debris. Augusta was entirely cut off from communication until late yesterday.

No estimate had been made today of the amount of damage to crops in Kansas, and Northern and Western Oklahoma. Thousands of acres of wheat, ready for harvest, and corn, were inundated. Thousands of head of cattle and other livestock were drowned.

Although heavy rains and swollen streams were reported in Northern Texas, no great damage was reported.

ANOTHER GROUP OF FRENCHMAN SEEKING RUSSIAN CONCESSIONS

Party Headed by Son of Jules Guesde Reported After Grants Not Entailing Recognition. (By a Staff Correspondent of the Manchester Guardian, the Post-Dispatch and New York World.) (Copyright, 1923.)

RIGA, June 12.—The group of Frenchmen who recently arrived at Moscow are seeking oil and other concessions that could not be carried out without recognition of Russia by France, at least to the extent of a trade agreement. The group does not call itself a mission, although it consists of Deverge Beretti Guesde, son of Jules Guesde and a staff of technical experts. They are acting independently of the Herriott group of French deputies, who favor relations with Russia.

The correspondent is informed on good authority the proposals of the Guesde company begin with oil concessions in the Baku district and open up the prospect of much other business, such as grain exporting.

RAILROAD MEN IN APPEAL TO LABOR BOARD FOR MORE PAY

Twelve Classes of Workers Want Increases from 8 1/4 Up to 15 Cents an Hour.

CHICAGO, June 12.—Quoting from a former decision of the United States Railroad Labor Board, that "wage scales which are insufficient to attract or support men of the character necessary for railroad work constitute waste and extravagance, and not economy," representatives of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees and Shop Laborers yesterday began argument before the board for an increase in wages.

Increases ranging from 8 1/4 to 15 cents an hour, effective Feb. 15, last, are sought for 10 classes of employees of the brotherhood. The argument was presented to the board by F. H. Fjorodal, grand president, and other officers of the organization.

Among the roads involved in the present hearing are the Chicago & Northwestern, Chicago Great Western, Kansas City Southern, Louisville & Nashville, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific and Texas & Pacific. Fjorodal declared the union would prove that "more than one-half of the maintenance of way employees are running into serious debt, and may easily be considered victims of charity, even though working regularly at the most strenuous labor."

ALLEGED AUTO THEFT BAND ROUNDED UP

Eleven Men, Including Former City and County Officers, Arrested at Eldorado, Ark.

By the Associated Press.
EL DORADO, Ark., June 12.—Operatives from the Department of Justice yesterday swooped down upon what they believe to be an auto theft ring whose operations during the last two years have spread over five states and arrested 11 men, some of them former city and county officers. Warrants have been sworn out for 14 more. They are charged with conspiracy to violate the Federal motor theft act.

Operatives have been working on the case during the last five months. It is estimated that at least $150,000 worth of cars have been stolen and sold.

Eleven of the men, including Garland Grace, Deputy Sheriff and former Assistant Chief of Police, and his three younger brothers, were taken to Camden for a hearing before Commissioner McLeod. The four Graces and Andrew Colvin and M. T. Hill were released on bonds of $15,000 each. The others failed to give bond and were taken to the Federal Court at Shreveport, La., early in July.

It was stated that cars were stolen in Eldorado and in the vicinity of the oil fields, taken to a farm several miles east of here, numbers changed, then taken into Louisiana and sold. Cars stolen in Louisiana were sold in Arkansas. The operations of the men have reached as far as Texas and are said to have extended to Oklahoma and Missouri.

Two Killed in Race for Crossing.
By the Associated Press.
VIRGINIA, Ill., June 12.—Two men in an automobile lost a race with a Baltimore & Ohio passenger train here yesterday. Both were killed. Driving along a road paralleling the railroad four miles from here, Arthur Newman and Roy Ross of Virginia, saw a train approaching. Believing they could beat the train to the crossing, they speeded up, but train and automobile arrived at the same time.

REAL FOOT COMFORT HERE AT LAST ICE-MINT

The New Discovery Ends All Foot Troubles.
Don't limp, avar, hump your shoulders nor suffer in silence with painful corns, callouses, bunions or with feet that just naturally tire quickly and hurt you. Just step into any drug store and get a jar of cooling, soothing Ice-Mint and the moment it touches those poor, tired, aching feet you will just sigh with relief. Real foot comfort, quick and sure.

Ice-Mint is a snow-white creamy preparation that comes from Nature. It is absolutely harmless. Yet it works pain instantly, draws the sting out of painful corns, callouses and bunions, reduces the swelling and makes the feet feel cool, sweet, and comfortable. You just rub it on like cold cream. Ah! how good your shoes feel and you can dance all night or walk all day and your feet won't hurt a bit. Think of it, only a touch or two of that cooling, soothing Ice-Mint and real foot joy is yours. It actually makes a pair of tired, swollen, corn-plagued, aching feet just glow with cooling comfort. Every foot sufferer can appreciate a treatment like this especially women who wear high-heeled shoes. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.

J. S. Leonard, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

Piles

Can't Be Cured From the Outside.
External treatments seldom cure Piles.
Nor do surgical operations.
The cause is inside—bad circulation.
The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.
The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.
To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.

RULING ON EXPORTATION OF NATURAL PRODUCTS

West Virginia Denied Right to Restrict Flow of Natural Gas Across State Borders

WASHINGTON, June 12.—A State cannot prohibit the exportation of its natural products in interstate commerce, the Supreme Court held yesterday in cases brought by the states of Ohio and Pennsylvania to enjoin West Virginia from regulating the flow of its natural gas across State lines.

The decision brought vigorous dissents from Justices Holmes, McReynolds and Brandeis, who criticized the ruling of the majority.

The court's opinion was delivered by Justice Van Devanter, who emphasized the importance of the principle established. As described by him the decision means "that in the matter of interstate commerce we are a single nation—one and the same people." All the states, he said, are united under the constitution to committing to Congress the power to regulate such commerce, this implying that the states were forbidden to do anything that would have such regulatory effect.

Van Devanter's Explanation. "The purpose," Justice Van Devanter explained, "is to protect commercial intercourse from invidious restraints, to prevent interference through conflicting or hostile state laws and to insure uniformity in regulation."

Referring to the contention of West Virginia that the suits had been prematurely brought before any act by its commission to restrict the quantity of natural gas transported to Ohio and Pennsylvania and the other states, Justice Van Devanter said:

"One does not have to await the consummation of threatened injury to obtain preventive relief. If the injury is certainly impending, that is enough."

Decision in Check Case. The court, in cases brought by State banks of Georgia and North Carolina, defined the power of Federal Reserve banks to insist upon par clearance, and collection of checks. It held that the methods used by the Atlanta Reserve Bank were lawful, but that a State could modify by legislation, as had North Carolina, the common-law rule which requires payment of checks in cash to provide that banks could use exchange in paying checks drawn upon them.

It was contended by the American Bank and Trust Co. and others of Georgia that the Atlanta Reserve Bank had intended to accumulate large quantities of checks drawn upon banks which made a collection or clearance charge, and to present them at the paying teller's window with a demand for par payment in cash.

This and other methods, which the Georgia banks not belonging to the Federal Reserve Bank system asserted had been decided upon by the Federal Reserve Board in its par clearance campaign, would have the effect, they contended, of driving them out of business.

The Supreme Court announced it would not grant appeals in cases involving the quantity of narcotics which a physician may lawfully have in his possession for use in the treatment of patients, as raised in a case brought by Simon A. Miller from Mississippi.

CHIROPRACTOR—FINED $50
R. O. Huntley, a chiropractor, 1319 Lynch street, was found guilty by a jury in the Court of Criminal Correction yesterday of practicing medicine without a license and fined $50.

Charles O. Rippe, a Health Department inspector, testified that last June he went to Huntley for treatment for a rash. Huntley, he said, promised him 36 treatments for $27, giving him a card with treatment notations on it which might be punched, much like a restaurant lunch ticket. Rippe paid $12 at the time on account, taking one treatment. Huntley will appeal.

STONEHAM LENT GIANTS' FUNDS TO PREVENT RUN ON BROKER

Part Owner of New York Nationals Says He Advanced $50,000 to E. M. Fuller & Co.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, June 12.—Testimony that he had gone to the aid of the stock brokerage firm of E. M. Fuller & Co., which failed for $6,000,000, on the request of Thomas F. Foley, Tammany official, during a run on the concern, was given by Charles A. Stoneham, part owner of the New York Giants ball club, at a bankruptcy hearing before a referee yesterday.

Stoneham said Foley had told him in May, 1932, that the Fuller company needed between $50,000 and $100,000 to prevent the run and to liquidate some assets, and that he had borrowed $50,000 from the National Exhibition Co., owners of the Giants, which he advanced to the brokerage firm through Foley.

Exhibiting the canceled checks, Stoneham said he had put up $75,000 in collateral to cover the loan. As president of the Exhibition company, he said, he was empowered to make loans on acceptable security in the absence of directors. The directors, he said, later had approved the loan and he promised to introduce the minute books recording the transaction at a later date.

Stoneham identified canceled checks for $147,500, which, he said, he had advanced to the Fuller company through Foley. He admitted he had not asked Foley to produce security for the loans and said whenever he made out the checks, Edward M. Fuller, head of the brokerage firm, called for them, identifying a check for $10,000 from the Fuller company, made out to Foley and indorsed over to the National Exhibition Co. Stoneham said the check had been received in exchange for the same amount he SAYS SCHWAB HAD DEALS WITH MRS. HAYES

Lawyer for Steel Magnate, However, Refuses to Reveal Nature of the Transactions.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 12.—That previous business relations existed between Charles M. Schwab and Mrs. Myrtle Bowman Hayes before the indictment of the middle-aged former milliner on the charge of forgery of the steel magnate's name to notes totalling thousands of dollars in connection with the financing of the Hotel Chatham project in Boston was revealed yesterday.

When questioned by George Edwin Joseph, attorney for Leo L. Redding & Co., one of the creditors of the Chatham enterprise at a hearing on the bankruptcy of William G. Tobey, president of the defendant project, William A. Mitchell, Schwab's attorney, declared he had known Mrs. Hayes during the "more than 20 years he has represented Schwab's interests."

Plea of Privilege Raised. He admitted that during the time he had acted in Schwab's behalf in matters concerning Mrs. Hayes. He refused, at the risk of being judged in contempt of court, to testify as to the nature of the relations between Schwab and the woman accused of forging his name.

While Referee Charles A. Tipling, in whose office in Long Island City the hearing was held, refused to hold Mitchell in contempt of court, the plea of privilege raised by Schwab's attorney will be certified before a Federal Judge for ruling.

If Referee Tipling's judgment that all questions seeking to establish obligation for Tobey's bankruptcy must be answered is upheld, Mitchell will be forced to reveal the nature of the matters concerning Mrs. Hayes for which he has acted in Schwab's behalf.

Daniel D. Weaver testified yesterday that while he was acting as Mrs. Hayes' attorney, Mitchell lent her $15,850.

Tells of Loans to Woman. "On Oct. 18, 1923," Weaver said, "Mitchell sent me his check for $50 with a letter stating it was a personal loan to me. He called me on the telephone later and explained it was given to me for a loan to Mrs. Hayes which he did not wish to make personally."

"There was a similar transaction Nov. 10 of the same year for $5500; on Nov. 14 for $8000; on Nov. 24 for $2500 and on Nov. 29 for $1200." Payment of these checks he made to Mrs. Hayes, Weaver declared, and her promissory notes were taken as security, although no demand was ever made upon her to meet the notes. Weaver said that he had never asked Mitchell why his loans to Mrs. Hayes were made through him. The hearing was adjourned until June 20.

MISSOURI'S WHEAT CROP MAY TOTAL 44,417,000 BUSHELS

June 1 Condition is 83 Per Cent. Same as in 1922, State Survey Indicates.

By the Associated Press. JEFFERSON CITY, June 12.—June prospects indicate a Missouri wheat crop of 44,417,000 bushels, compared to 38,750,000 bushels last year, according to a report issued here today by E. A. Logan and Jewell Mayes of the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service.

The Missouri wheat crop did not start heavily and is thin, while southeast counties had too much rain and were damaged by overflows and standing water, the report said. Continuing, the report said, "Chinch bug infestation is fully as bad, if not worse, than last year. Hessian fly are very bad in Buchanan County. The June 1 condition of 83 per cent is the same as last year, against a 10-year average of 78 per cent."

"The oat crop was sown upon 1,285,000 acres this year, compared to 1,117,000 acres last year. The condition is 75 per cent, against 67 per cent last June, and the indicated yield is 24.64 bushels an acre, totaling 31,662,000 bushels. Early oats are rather poor, while the late-sown oats are good."

"June hay conditions indicate a smaller hay crop than last year. The acreage is slightly less than in 1932, owing to the loss of clover and timothy from drought last fall and the freezing of new seed in March. To make up the deficiency, farmers are sowing millet, sorghums, sudan, soy beans and cow peas."

"Missouri fruits are promising, except peaches and plums. Apples have dropped badly in a few counties. Strawberries were damaged by rains, but blackberries and raspberries show good prospects."

"June crop conditions are from 18 to 20 days late, being greatest in the southeast counties."

MEMBERS OF BAR HEAR DEBATE ON COURTHOUSE SITE

Special Meeting of Association Held at University Club Preliminary to Resolution on Issue.

E. J. RUSSELL SPEAKS FOR CITY PLANNERS

Urges Location Near Proposed New City Plaza—J. Breaker Appears Broadway Interests.

Advantages of the two local being urged for the new $4,000 courthouse—one at Twelfth and Broadway, and the other at Twelfth and Chestnut. The matter now is before a special committee of the Board of Aldermen. The Citizens' Advisory Committee, which will advise the Board, has been designated a referendum to be taken of views of lawyers on the courthouse site.

Designation of a site for the building has been at issue since passage of the $37,000,000 bond issue public improvements last February, and the matter now is before a special committee of the Board of Aldermen. The Citizens' Advisory Committee, which will advise the Board, has been designated a referendum to be taken of views of lawyers on the courthouse site.

City Plan Chairman Hear E. J. Russell, chairman of the City Plan Commission, and a dozen other speakers last night at the University Club. Russell urged the Courthouse be built on the site of the old Courthouse, between Twelfth and Chestnut, and between Broadway and Chestnut. He declared it the logical site and the people voted the Courthouse under the present Courthouse. He said the site would be chosen. George J. Breaker, counsel for the City Improvement Association, which favors the Broadway and Chestnut site, urged the building be erected on the site of the old Courthouse or at the adjacent block. They asserted would be most convenient for lawyers and others using the building, and that removal of the Courthouse would depreciate the values in the eastern section of the business district.

The Twelfth boulevard site recommended by the City Plan Commission after a careful study of street car and vehicular traffic conditions to determine what site would be most accessible from all parts of the city, Russell said. Charles exhibited tending to show Twelfth boulevard location is more accessible than one on Broadway.

Effect on Property Values "The commission does not consider the Courthouse of great value to the downtown or retail district," Russell said. "One of the reasons to present downtown values is the Custom House. Property owners near Fourth and Chestnut are justified in looking for themselves, but I don't think their property values will fall if the Courthouse is moved. The house has been there many years yet there has been a marked appreciation in property values."

He stressed the opportunity grouping public buildings around Memorial Plaza and creating a great civic center as well as a realization of municipal art. The group would include the Hall, Municipal Court, City Central Public Library, Courthouse, the $5,000,000 Municipal Auditorium authorized by bond issue, all fronting on Memorial Plaza and Memorial Boulevard. Breaker asserted the present vote to put the Courthouse on the site, and recalled the ordinance does not specify. "Downtown business worked for the bond issue, and up their money for the Courthouse, but did not have the faintest idea the location was to be changed after the bonds were voted."

Plan for Broadway Site A site on Broadway, Russell said, would afford convenience through the old and new houses being close together, and the new Government Building at Fourth and Chestnut. Such a location would be convenient for the public, and he said, and would be heart of the district. He denied assertions of a site in that district cost $1,000,000 or more.

He criticized a statement issued by President Russell, head of Public Service, that officials favored the plan. The board might refuse to entertain supporting a plan. "This attitude is, in my opinion, the way we want to go," he said. "We want to go to the heart of the city."

The Sovereign Landlord.

Why does "Rent Hog Victim" put up such a mournful howl? Certainly I and the rest of the landowners of the United States are the owners of the United States, and nothing can be done upon the soil of the United States without our permission. Except possibly upon the highways, but even there we have provided vagrancy laws that pretty well cut off that resort.

But why complain about it? Why go ahead recklessly and have a lot of children, when you know perfectly well that you have no place to put them? Why blame the landlords, when they go by the approved rule of trade and ask as much as they can get for their land? All of these people who swarm in the purlieus of our cities have no right at all to live. They can live only by the landowners' permission. The really unreasonable thing is that there are laws against telling them how not to have children, and laws prohibiting them from buying poison with which to poison those that have.

Nobody but a landowner has a right to live anyhow. RENT HOG.

What It Costs to Live.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I HAVE just finished reading your editorial on "Europe and the Farmer" in your Sunday edition. I agree with its expressions—as far as it went, excepting League of Nations part; but it shows only the effects, not the causes. One unacquainted with the subject might infer that the laborers in the cities and towns are to blame for the conditions of the laborers on the farm, which is incorrect. Why not put your economic editor on the job and write an editorial showing the real causes behind those conditions? Might I suggest, beforehand, that he figure out, first, how much per meal a laboring man should pay to support one child; then multiply that one meal by three for the day; multiply that product by 615 for the year; then multiply that product by three, because the average workingman has at least three children to support.

Then estimate how much a man and his wife should pay for their own meals. Three times a day for 365 days of the year, adding that to the cost of the children's food for the year. Then estimate how much should be paid for clothes, shoes and caps and hats for the children in winter; how much in summer; how much for their school books, pencils, pens, etc. for doctor and medicine. Then estimate how much should be paid for clothes, shoes, hats, caps, etc., for himself and wife for winter and summer and add that product to the rest of same for the children. Then add the cost of house rent, of fuel, of light and of water to the above. Though something should be added for insurance, for loss, dues, for church dues, for charity, religion and pleasure, let him eliminate these from the cost of living. Materialistic employers are not interested in these items when considering the cost of living.

Supposing the laborer is a carpenter, instead of the lesser paid unskilled laborer, and that he gets $1.50 an hour, which is far in excess of any price paid for skilled labor. Let us suppose that he works nine months a year, which is three months more than the average; the average working days for the nine months, if it does not rain, etc., will be less than 27 days per month. Now, multiply those days by $1.50, which is at the rate of $1.50 per hour (and not $1.75 per day) though some may take that by overtime. Subtract his total cost to live from the total of the amount he has earned and see how much he has left for pleasure, to save, to pay lodge dues, to support his church, to aid a needy brother or relative. The conditions from which the laborers on the farm and in the town suffer are entered in the middleman system; but on these middlemen are hardly making a living, owing to a system that takes cents out of every dollar we make as long as we eat, drink and wear clothes. I hope this article is not "too socialist" for the columns of the Post-Dispatch. I am not a Socialist.

Spare the Courthouse.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

LET us hope that the radicals who are perhaps foreigners, may be induced to spare the old Courthouse on Fifth between Market and Chestnut. The only landmark of olden days that I know of. My home was nearby and we many times played around.

31 YEARS OLD.

OVER THE TOP, ST. LOUIS!

St. Louis is now on the military aviation map. The decision of Adjutant-General Raupp of the National Guard of Missouri to locate the Air Service Unit of the National Guard for the states of Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska in St. Louis is a long step towards the realization of the plans of the St. Louis Air Board to make the national air race meet here in October a great success and St. Louis the center of aviation, military and commercial, for the Mississippi Valley.

With the completion of the work of organizing the unit and of preparing the ground the St. Louis field will be permanently established as the center of the National Guard air training and activities. Government aid in equipping and maintaining the field is assured as soon as the unit is recruited and organized. The Government will erect two permanent steel and concrete hangars on the field, a machine shop and will provide airplanes and necessary accessories. Altogether it is expected that about $200,000 will be expended by the Government in equipping the field and the men. This will relieve the St. Louis Aeronautic Corporation of some of the expense of preparing for the races and of responsibility for the handling of the field.

In order, however, to realize the benefits of this decision and to assure a successful race meet St. Louis must do her part. Two things are necessary. The National Guard Unit must be recruited to the strength of 101 men. About 65 former army flyers are in St. Louis, available for the unit. The work of recruiting is now in progress at the Air Board headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce. The quota should be filled rapidly with young men who will get the benefit of flying instruction and training.

The stock of the St. Louis Aeronautic Corporation must be subscribed in full within a month. The corporation is capitalized at $200,000, with shares at $50 each. More than half of this sum has been pledged, but the entire fund must be on hand to defray the expenses of preparation of the field and the purchase of additional equipment for the races.

The money raised for the corporation will not be expended wholly for the races. A field of 183 acres will be purchased and graded and equipped for a permanent military and commercial field. The land and equipment will be an asset increasing in value year by year, not only in intrinsic value but in value to the city in developing aviation and making St. Louis the center of aviation development for both military and commercial purposes. It is expected that the sale of admissions and concessions will go far towards defraying the expenses of the meet, so that the purchase of the stock of the Aeronautic Corporation may be regarded as an investment of value. The races, if not fully yet in large measure, will pay for themselves and the world-wide advertising of the city will be of incalculable value. St. Louis is now the focus of world-wide interest.

No solicitation should be required to obtain the remaining subscriptions for the corporation stock. The sum needed is a bagatelle compared with the ends to be gained for the city and for the people of St. Louis.

The citizens who have brought the races to St. Louis and are now laboring to prepare for their success and to establish a permanent field and unit here have been moved solely by public spirit. They are giving their time and energy free. It is a labor of local patriotism and pride on their part. They should receive the enthusiastic, liberal support and co-operation of all St. Louisans. In the matter of raising this money St. Louis should go over the top with a rush.

THAT AUSTRIAN LOAN.

The American quota—$25,000,000—of the international Austrian loan was subscribed in 15 minutes. The action has inspired J. P. Morgan to observe that the American market will importantly participate in the financial rehabilitation of European nations that sincerely strive to re-establish their credit. Quite as much may be said, also, for the English market, which, London reports, quickly absorbed the allotment of $55,000,000 of those bonds.

If money talks as convincingly as the apothegm implies, many high officials should be impressed with this New York and London utterance. The recovery of Austria is largely due to her own genius, courage and determination, but the attitude of the Entente, expressed through the League of Nations, has been materially helpful. If the same encouragement and faith and friendliness were accorded Germany could not the similar results be looked for?

The Austrian experience urges upon the world the necessity and sound wisdom of forgetting the hatreds of war and of co-operatively trying to build new structures on the old ruins. A policy that has worked so admirably in one country is at least worth trying elsewhere.

TWO PRINCIPLES FOR CLEMENCY.

Senator Pepper of Pennsylvania has made an appeal for clemency for 28 of the "political" prisoners whose cases he has been studying on the ground that their offenses consisted merely of the expression of opinion. It is believed to be members of this group whose sentences, according to a White House statement, will be commuted by the President. With the release of these prisoners the principle of amnesty toward this class of offenders will have been established.

Now the Federal Judge and Prosecutor who were instrumental in securing convictions in what is known as the Wichita case have recommended clemency to these prisoners "in the interest of justice," because the espionage act, under which the men were convicted, has been repealed. What voices could be more authoritative in their critical knowledge of the status of these men than the officers of the law who prosecuted and presided at the trial of the cases? If the President acts favorably on these recommendations another principle of amnesty will have been established.

If prisoners under one or both of these categories are entitled to their freedom then a great wrong is being inflicted every day they are held submerged in the multitude of thugs and murderers who make up the bulk of the convict personnel. Even though it is conceded that these men deserved conviction for their activities during the war, nevertheless, it is a well-known fact that among them are idealists whose motive, far from being criminal, was a burning zeal, perhaps misguided and fanatical, for an improvement of the condition of the working masses.

The President has said he would consider each case individually on its merits. He has available at Washington the data for such consideration without delay. The longer meritorious cases are allowed to remain without action the greater must be the embarrassment in being forced finally to admit their merit. The President could prove his magnanimity at no time more gracefully than at present.

THE MUNICIPAL THEATER'S FUTURE.

Dr. Gregory Zilboorg, the Russian authority on the theater whom the Artists' Guild introduced to St. Louis, has given his impressions of our municipal opera in a sincere, painstaking article in the Post-Dispatch. With some of his judgments, or rather perceptions, we may not agree. Dr. Zilboorg may be right, for instance, in constraining this effort as a revolt against the banality of the country's theater control and the promising beginning of a national artistic culture; if so, St. Louis is building better than it knew. No such pretentious dream inspired the founders of our municipal theater, and no such ambitious objective now cheers them on.

One point in the Russian's commentary, however, will widely be indorsed—the charm and spontaneity of the chorus, which, composed of local talent, so obviously works for the joy of working. Nor is this quality of the chorus without its irradiating effect on the professional principals, as Dr. Zilboorg would perceive with the opportunity for more leisurely and reflective study.

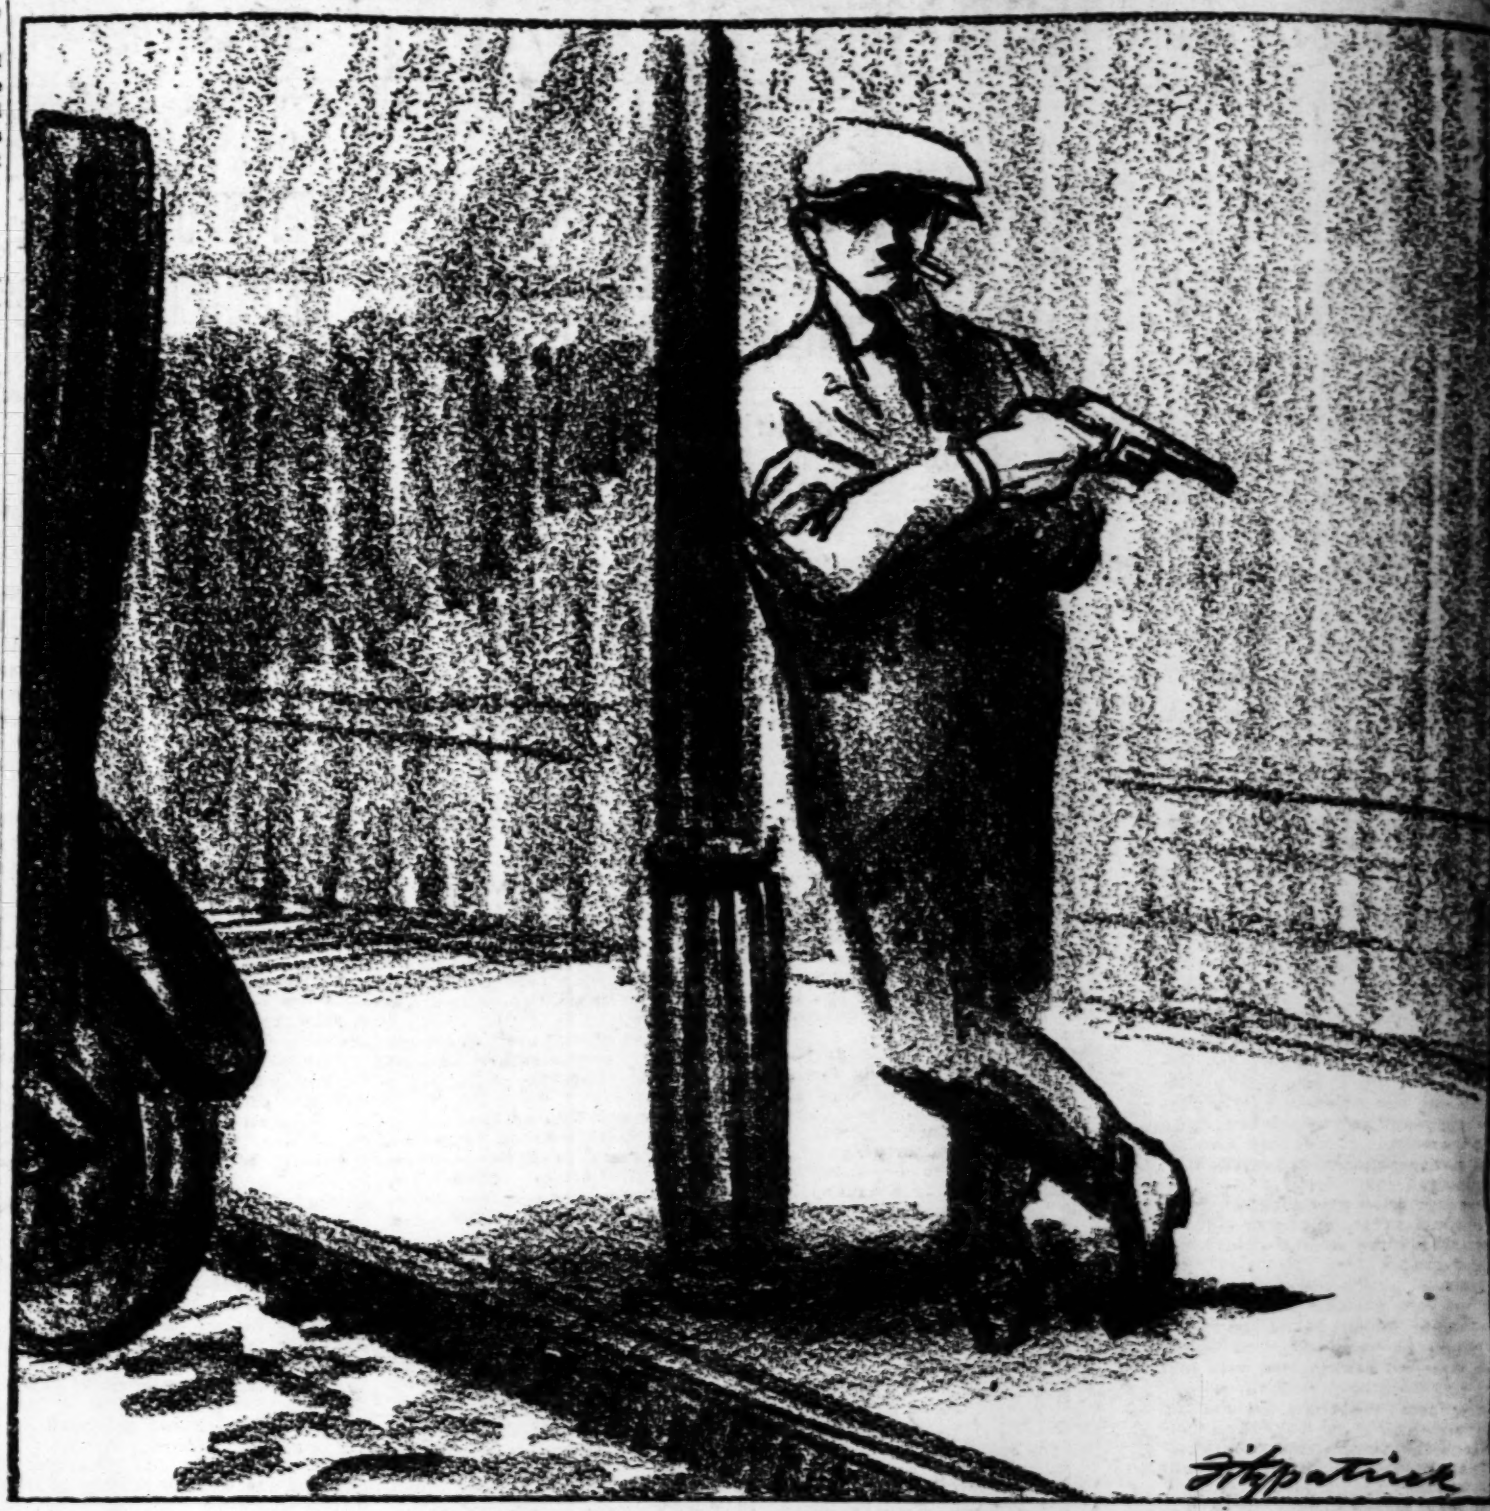

As to the spatial and apperceptive possibilities of the natural setting which are not being fully utilized that is, of course, a question concerning which the layman may not presume to debate with a technician of Dr. Zilboorg's eminence. It is a piece of kindly offered counsel, in this instance, which the director might ponder. Yet in the mechanics of the productions it seems to us progress is being made. The municipal theater is going forward artistically, too. Presently, perhaps, the season will close with some such climax as the Pageant of Youth suggested by the friendly Russian. Ten years hence, it may be, the efforts now making will seem elementary. It is to be hoped, though, that our municipal theater will never conceive of itself as having too serious a mission, that it will never be killed by the bite of the uplift bug, but will continue to be the medium for delightful entertainment under the twinkling summer stars, as artistic and good of its kind as the public desires.

PANETELA.

Y ES, Lusella, Indignation
Boils about
The boys in jail;
Somehow people
Could not credit
This reiterated Tale.
Something had To up and grab 'em
Cayman fashion
By the hair
For-to make them
Wolff conscious
That the prisoners
Are there.
So it goes,
My little girlie.
Nothing keeps
A man behind
All his scars.
Prison bars
Quite like dispassion
On the part Of humankind.
In the ultimate Appraisal,
When earth's jailors
Are accused,
Apathy, despite Great tyrants, Likely will Be judged the worst.

All of us
Have known in this case
What the fact was Right along;
Yet our silence
Has permitted
This unpardonable Wrong.
Just as if
Our boasted freedom, Notwithstanding
All its scars, Meant no more
With us than under Russia's celebrated Czars.
War's atrocities,
My dearie, Always typical Of Hell's Reach their climax
In the people
Away in cells.
There it is,
Afar from battle,
All that humankind
Reveres
Or has cared
To shed its blood for
At the wind-up Disappears.

Wherefore things
Are fairly popping
And the inquiry
Is pressed
Whether we believe In freedom
Or have meant it
As a jest.
Knowing well
That once the subject
Is thrashed out
In all its kinks,
No one can Remain in prison
For asserting
What he thinks.

What Will Rogers assures Mr. Harding the people of this country are really interested in, being this fellow Firpo, etc., as opposed to the World Court, etc., is in a measure borne out by what H. L. Mencken says in our American language. The following are his transcriptions of the Declaration of Independence, 1776 from the preamble:

When things get so balled up that the people of a country have got to cut loose from some other country and go it on their own hook without asking no permission from nobody, excepting maybe God Almighty, then they ought to let everybody know why they do it, so that everybody can see they are on the level and not trying to put nothing over on nobody.

And this from the famous passage "We hold these truths to be self-evident," etc.:
All we got to say on this proposition is this: First me and you is as good as anybody else, and maybe a darn sight better; second, nobody ain't got no right to take away none of our rights; third, every man has got a right to live, to come and go as he pleases, and to have a good time whenever way he likes, so long as he don't interfere with nobody else."

You cannot dream yourself into a character; you must hammer and forge yourself one.—Froude.

Sir: The Idler had occasion to use one of the U. S. R's sardine cans the other evening and as one happened along just then he boarded it. Just here let it be said that the word "boarded," as suiting the action to the word, is a most fitting expression, always keeping in mind the nice distinction between a boarder and a roomer.

But in this case, as the hour was late and it was near the end of the line, there was plenty of room; for with the exception of a policeman and two other suspicious looking characters, one of them was asleep, the car was deserted. The conductor was hard-boiled and evidently felt in need of exercise, for he went over and grabbed the dozing passenger and almost shook him loose from his reputation.

The Idler scented trouble, but soon saw he was off the scent, for the man woke up with a smile and almost gave the token-taker a grateful look. It was quite evident he was of the easy-going, mild-mannered sort—the kind of man who would order two eggs in a restaurant with the stipulation that he would like to have one of them good.

And as the Idler left the car he felt to wondering as to what terrible things his fellow passenger had been dreaming about, that the reality seemed so pleasing when he awoke.

INK.

INK, how I love it!
When I sit down to write,
I'm never happy
Until I've smeared it
All over my fingers.
And on my desk:
Even decorating my countenance at times,
In the fervor and enthusiasm
Of my work.
Ink to me is as the deep blue of the sapphire,
The color of a starlit sky.
And the marvelous blue of the violet.
It has become a passion with me,
And when at last I am dead,
Let my ashes rest,
Not in a Grecian vase of great beauty
And chaste lines which delight the eye—
Instead, let my ashes rest,
As I said before,
In an ancient, dry and long unused
Ink bottle.

LAW ENFORCEMENT.

From the Philadelphia Record.

IT would be hardly worth while to discuss the accusation that New York "has seceded" from the Union in repealing the Mullin-Gaga law, or that it is disloyal to the Constitution, or that Governor Smith's approval was an act of treason, if it were not that some of these new charges come from a part of the country which has completely destroyed the Fifteenth amendment, with the sanction of the highest courts, and with scarcely a word of protest from other parts of the country where the Eighteenth amendment is regarded as too sacred even for discussion.

Mr. Bryan some months ago explained to a Southern audience that it was absolutely essential for the salvation of civilization that the Fifteenth amendment should be rendered inoperative. He is passionately determined to have the Eighteenth enforced. Congressman Upshaw of Georgia, who a few days ago made a violent demand for the enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment comes from a state where the Fifteenth is made nugatory. Senator Sheppard of Texas was the head and front of the forces that carried the Eighteenth amendment through Congress, but the Fifteenth amendment is unknown in his part of the country, defeated by the unscrupulous actions of individuals and by the ignominious but very dubious device of Legislatures. This part of the country the people who are champions of the Eighteenth care nothing whatever about the Fifteenth amendment. It is perfectly loyal and entirely consistent with morality and religion to disallow, or thwart, or circumvent the Fifteenth amendment, but the Eighteenth is as sacred as the Ark of the Covenant. Congress, which would not dare to try to enforce the Fifteenth amendment, votes $9,000,000 a year for a special force of operators to enforce the Eighteenth. The repeal of the Mullin-Gaga law merely leaves the enforcement of a Federal law in New York State to the Federal officials and averts the double jeopardy which results from the sense of justice.

MAN AND THE UNIVERSE.

From the Baltimore News.

DO you ever think of the wonderful protection the marvelous precision in celestial mechanics that guard you, as you travel through space? The huge reservoirs, which we call oceans, the earth's waters are stored for our use. These vast volumes of water rest on the surface of a whirling sphere traveling through space at fearful speed. The slightest derangement, the slightest lack of balance in our motion round the sun, the slightest shifting of the poles and the mountains of water miles high would sweep over the continents and wipe out—not only one small city—but the entire human race. Change the temperature of your body by but a few degrees and you die. But you travel through space safely, with a fresher sense of water about you. You travel in company with atoms that throw out endless billions of degrees of heat. You are protected in a traveling hot-house regulated exactly to suit your feeble strength and all your wants. Did you ever see the small nose of a dog pressed against the window of a flying express train? Have you ever seen a dog barking at the landscape whirling by? Have you reflected on the utter inability of that poor creature to realize the marvelous intelligence and power which are whirling him along as he barks and wags his tail and enjoys himself calmly? All of us, when we travel in this magnificently conducted conveyance called the earth—whirling onward to a tiny world of our habitation—are as much as the nose of a dog pressed against the window of a flying express train looking out at nature's madhouse looking out with less than dog appreciation.

The Conning Tower

The Reactionary Post Looks at Literature.

Mr. Writer Smead de Smead,
You're winning columns of me down;
Your newest "candid" book on me
Is selling all about the town.
That kind of book I cannot brook;
I hold that it is far from sane;
Your notion of a hundred girls
Gives me a sharp and shooting pain.

Mr. Writer Smead de Smead,
I know you put on lots of swag;
You say that life is only swill—
Your far too fluent pen is "frank."
You call a spade a hand-grenade,
You prate of dreams and anthems;
A simple tale of honest stuff
Is worth a hundred phony French poems.

Mr. Writer Smead de Smead,
You thought to give me quite a turn;
But when it comes to candor, oh,
Me Rabelais or Laurence Stern
In various ways you sought to please.

And my contempt is my reply
The Shermans and the Billy Pies
Are not more cold to you than I.
Mr. Writer Smead de Smead,
You have a calculating heart,
If any. And your carelessness
You want to make us think is a
Your "freedom" is only queer;
Your "artistry" is only queer;
That stamps the stuff of Smead de Smead.

Trust me, Mr. Smead de Smead,
From you blue heavens that are above
The gardener Adam and his wife
Laugh at your claims of nobility.
However it be, it seems to me
It is not great to be complex;
Kind art is more than Waldo Frazer
And simple faith than spurt of sex.

Mr. Writer Smead de Smead,
If time be heavy on your head
Are there no sewers that you dig?
Are there no charlottes won't
O teach the human race to read

The news that the New York trial will have to electrify the trial running near Riverside Drive by is too good. For the railroad, as we know, has filed no demurrer or whatever a corporation does it wants to say that a feasible is impossible—so we are worried about it. The only real thing that electrification will by 1935 is that the engineers' night act as though they had a little more time to make a fix.

Although on the steamship instead of on H. M. S. Pinard, Louis Untermyer, on his St. Andrew, has had his first punctured. "We anchored Queenstown," he wails, "and bumboat women came out to laces and copies of the Cori liner. But none of them I could tolerate, because they were so fat, or excellent pepperoni. And the ship's band, when (by me) to play the apt thing, responded with select Madame Butterfly."

And Louis might have said They played Madame B. dear Madame Butterfly. Though I could never tell.

INDUSTRIAL COURT CANNOT REGULATE PRIVATE BUSINESS

Court all public utilities and common carriers, it was decided yesterday on the ground that the preparation of food was affected by a public interest and that it was within the power of the Legislature to so declare.

The decision divided business so affected by a public interest into three classes—those carried on under authority of a public grant of privileges imposing the affirmative duty of rendering a public service demanded by any member of the public, such as railroads; those occupations, regarded as exceptional, where the public interest attaching has been recognized from earliest times, such as keeper of inns and business enterprises, which, though not public at their inception, may be fairly said to have become such; where the owner by devoting his business to the public use, in effect, grants the public an interest in that use, and subjects himself to public regulation.

Declaration Not Conclusive.
The mere declaration by a Legislature that a business is affected with public interest, the court declared, is not conclusive of the question of whether its attempted regulation on that ground is justified. The expression "clothed with a public interest" as applied to a business, the opinion added, means more than the public welfare is affected by continuity or by the price at which a commodity is sold or a service rendered.

"The circumstances which clothe a particular kind of business with a public interest . . . must be such as to create a peculiarly close relation," the Chief Justice said, "between the public and those engaged in it, and raise implications of an affirmative obligation on their part to be reasonable in dealing with the public."

EXPRESSIONS OF ST. LOUISANS ON OUR 'POLITICAL' PRISONERS

The tendency of some of our citizens to indulge in loose and ill-advised speech, I think we are now happily in position to deal with these unfortunate in a spirit of charity. If for public reasons it was necessary that the law should be vindicated, I feel sure the majority of us are now willing to say the vindication has been ample and complete.

As is known, England, long ago, released all of her war prisoners.

and the law under which our citizens were incarcerated for alleged inflammatory public utterance has been repealed. So, from all angles of the question being considered, I believe this nation can with good grace restore our war prisoners to their respective families. Remembering the words of the great Lincoln, let us proceed "with charity towards all and malice towards none."

Old Dutch insures perfect cleanliness

You know how necessary it is to give the refrigerator special care; how important it is to keep it clean and wholesome.

You are assured of perfect sanitation and absolute cleanliness when you use Old Dutch. Old Dutch leaves a sweet and clean surface; it removes odors.

The secret of Old Dutch thoroughness is its flat-shaped particles, made that way by Nature. Free from hard, jagged grit, which scratches the surface, grinds in the dirt and cannot clean efficiently.

Old Dutch particles do not scratch; they erase away the dirt because they offer more cleansing surface. Naturally it does a greater amount of cleaning than gritty material.

Use it for all cleaning; it does better work than anything else you can buy.

The passenger ticket for the round trip can be bought to the Sedalia fair from any point in the United States, and can be purchased up to the opening of the fair and can be used for the return immediately after its close, Jones said. The lower freight rates apply to material which is for exhibit at the fair. The shipper is to pay the full rate of transportation to Sedalia, and the railroad will return the exhibit to the original point of shipment free upon presentation of a certificate from the secretary of the Missouri Fair.

REFUSES TO OUST RECEIVER

Judge English Denies Motion by East St. Louis Concern.

A motion to dismiss the receiver and dissolve the injunction granted several weeks ago against the Mon-Clair Realty Co. and Fisher-Schein Syndicate, 324 Missouri avenue, East St. Louis, was denied by Federal Judge English in East St. Louis yesterday. C. B. Thomas, receiver, was ordered to file an inventory of assets and liabilities.

The receivership was granted on complaint of Anna Lee of Normandy, who charged that she held $4300 worth of shares in the Fisher-Schein Syndicate on which she had received no dividends and could not obtain a settlement. The Mon-Clair Realty Co. absorbed the Fisher-Schein Syndicate and is solvent, attorneys for the company have stated.

Miss Meier's foot was crushed, her jaw broken and lower spine fractured. She finally was pulled ashore by Wallace Adams, 18. King was carried away by the swift current.

NINETY PER CENT OF GIRLS ARE VICTIMS

Glaring Truth Brought Out by Recent Investigation of Widely Used Method.

The tremendous sale of the Beauty Creations which are being sold under the now famous Black and White label and which have caused so much discussion among beauty and skin specialists has resulted in a thorough sifting out of valuable information.

Girls and women who have had complexion troubles and who have been trying first one thing then another to bring that clear, rosy and pleasing appearance to their faces can trace their failure to just one thing, and that is—the method they have been using do not get lasting results.

It is true that many things have been offered to them through flashy advertising, promising instant and almost overnight relief from pimples, blotches, rough or yellow skin, and all too unadapting in their eagerness to be attractive they believe it.

But not until the new famous Black and White Beauty Creations were perfected a few years ago and anything really reliable been available. This is proven by the many girls who regularly use the Black and White Creaming Cream, Peroxide Cream, Soap and the many others to meet every need in the care of their complexion and which is the reason Black and White Beauty Creations are being sold so widely.

TERMINAL IS TOLD TO VACATE FREE BRIDGE

Board of Aldermen Passes Resolution Without Dissent—Legal Phases Pointed Out.

The Board of Aldermen, without dissenting vote, passed a resolution calling upon the Mayor and Director of Public Utilities Hooke as members of the Municipal Bridge Commission, to order the Terminal Railroad to sever its present connection with the Municipal Bridge. Alderman Udell requested to be recorded as not voting.

The resolution was introduced at the request of the Citizens' Free Bridge Association, organized by Frank H. Gerhart to oppose the proposal to exchange the use of the Municipal Bridge for Eads Bridge. The theory was that a physical connection by the Terminal might have the effect of giving the Terminal some legal proprietary interest. However, the Terminal has indicated its willingness to surrender the connection at any time the city desires. The connection was established during the war period of Federal operation of railroads. It is a switch track and has been used by the Terminal since the return of the railroads to their owners. The Terminal recently communicated its willingness to pay $50,000 for the past use of the bridge and $1000 a month rental henceforth for the switch track. It was then that the opponents of the exchange of uses of the bridges raised the point that acceptance of the money would give the Terminal an interest in the bridge.

HIGHER BUILDINGS PLANNED AT KING'S HIGHWAY AND DELMAR

Ordinance Introduced to Permit 80-Foot Structures to Go Up at Boulevard Corner.

An ordinance permitting the erection of buildings 80 feet high on the four corners of the intersection of Delmar boulevard with King's highway, and on the east side of King's highway for a distance of about five blocks south, was introduced to the Board of Aldermen today by the City Plan Commission. The height now is restricted to 60 feet by the Zoning Ordinance. A meeting of residents of the vicinity will be held tonight in the Washington Hotel for an expression of their desire in the matter. Though the City Plan Commission is sponsoring the ordinance, it has announced that it would not press passage over the objections of persons affected. The Commission believes the purpose of limiting the height of buildings—the insurance of light and air—would not be impaired by 80-foot buildings along a street of the width of King's highway. There is at present a project for the erection of an apartment house at King's highway and McPherson avenue and its promoters desire to make its height more than 60 feet. The limit is 80 feet in the vicinity of the new Chase Hotel at King's highway and Lindell boulevard.

FISK APPROVES STORE PLAN FOR ST. CHARLES STREET TUNNEL

Streets Director to Recommend Nurgent Application for Arcade Be Granted.

Director of Streets and Sewers Fisk announced today he would recommend that the Board of Public Service approve the application of B. Nugent & Bro. Dry Goods Co. to arcade and tunnel under St. Charles street, from Broadway back 150 feet to the east. The company needs this permission to link all parts of the $2,000,000 nine-story department store it is planning to erect along Broadway from Washington avenue to a point 155 feet south of St. Charles street. A public hearing was scheduled for today to permit objections to the company's proposal to be voiced. When no objections appeared the board asked Fisk to report his recommendations to Friday. Director Fisk said he would recommend that approval be given on condition that the facing surface of the arcade be of white enameled brick, for lighting efficiency. He will also report favorably on the company's request that the alley east of Broadway, between St. Charles and Locust streets, be vacated in full, but final action on this rests with the Aldermen. Part of the alley has already been vacated for the Federal Reserve bank building, now being erected.

FOUR PERSONS HURT IN FALLS

Boy Jumping From Roof Strikes Ash Pit; Baby Girl Injured.
Two men, a boy and a baby girl were seriously injured yesterday in falls or leaps at their homes. Sylvia Widmer, 26-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Widmer, 1824 South Broadway, fell 25 feet over the railing of a second-floor porch to a brick paved yard below, after she had lost her balance when she climbed upon a chair. Her left leg was fractured. Jacob Knoll, 27, of 1244A High street, suffered a fracture of the skull in a 15-foot fall down a rear stairway. The right hip of William Bessa, 54, of 1516A Benton street, was fractured when he also fell down a rear stairway. In jumping from the roof of a shed, Leo Geiner, 7, of 2107 South Fourth street, struck against the side of an ash pit at the rear of his home. He suffered internal injuries.

P. T. Barnum Won the Second Race at Blue Bonnets; May We Not Again Infer That Barnum Was "Right?"

Sarazen, Barnes and Hoffner Fail To Qualify for British Open Golf Tourney; Hagen Barely in With 159

American Open Champion Shoots 85 in the Rain for Second 18 Holes and Is Put Out of Play—Tommy Armour and Harry Vardon Also Fall by the Wayside.

TROON, June 12.—Gene Sarazen, Jim Barnes and Charley Hoffner, American professional golfers, failed to qualify for the British Open Championship in the two-day qualification play which ended this afternoon. Walter Hagen, present holder of the British Open title, just managed to squeeze into the title play, tying for last place with an aggregate of 159 strokes. Sarazen, who is American Open champion, turned in an 85 in the rain today, which put him out of the tournament.

Tommy Armour and Harry Vardon also fell by the wayside. Americans who qualified besides Hagen were: MacDonald Smith, San Francisco, 78-77-155; Johnny Farrell, Quaker Ridge, New York, 80-77-157; Frank Clarke, Asheville, N. C., 79-80-159; Leo Diegel, Washington, 77-82-159; George Aubuch, Boston, 80-75-155; Joe Kirkwood, Australian star, who now resides in the United States, 76-76-152. Americans who failed to qualify besides Sarazen were: Jim Barnes, Pelham Manor, N. Y., 80-80-160; Charles Hoffner, Philadelphia, 78-82-160; T. D. Armour, former Scotch amateur champion, who now lives in New York, 78-84-162.

Hagen Finishes Brilliantly. Hagen was erratic on the outward nine holes, but pulled himself together on the homeward route. He was in distress on each of the first five holes and appeared on the verge of being eliminated. On the sixth he took a birdie three, following this with another birdie on the par three seventh hole, but again his game fell off and he finished with a five and a six for a total of 41 at the turn. From then on he was his usual brilliant self and came home in even fours.

Long Jim Barnes fell down on the last nine holes, where three sixes helped to swell his total to 42. His putting, like Hagen's, was particularly faulty. The greens were slowed up by a heavy rain in the late afternoon, and many putts were short. MacDonald Smith's 77 for today's round put him among the leaders. His shots with the wooden clubs were invariably straight and his irons were deadly. He was seemingly careless on the greens, however, missing several easy putts. Both he and Hagen were forced to play part of their round in a driving rain.

Roger Wethered, the new British amateur champion, was among those who failed to qualify. Eighty-eight players qualified for the 72 holes of stroke competition. Conditions bad for Sarazen. Sarazen's score today, although high, was unusually good, considering the rain. He was in difficulty shortly after the start when he took an eight on his second hole. On the twelfth Sarazen drove straight into the face of a bunker and then had plenty of room to play, but foolishly tried to carry his shot, forcing him to take a six. At this stage Sarazen began to display uneasiness. His irritability was increased when his partner, who was playing in difficulties, kept him waiting to decide in what manner to play his shot.

Towards the finish Sarazen "found" himself again, and although he was bunkered on several occasions and missed a few putts, brought his smile into play. Sarazen's card for the second round follows: Out... 5 8 3 5 5 4 4 5—43 In... 3 6 5 5 4 4 4 5—42—85 Leo Diegel of Washington, the second American to come in, returned a score of 82, which gave him a total of 159 for the two days. Diegel got into the rough on the first two holes but thereafter managed to have clear going. His card: Out... 6 7 4 4 5 5 3 5—43 In... 3 5 6 4 3 5 4 4—39—82

Should Turn in a 77. James Braid, the venerable Britisher, who led the field yesterday with a 72 came back with a fine 77 today giving him a total of 149. "Sandy" Herd, oldest of all the contestants, came in with a 79 giving him 156 for the 36 holes. Jean Gassiat, the main French reliance, took 80 for the course, bringing his total score to 153. His countryman, Aubrey Boomer, retrieved some ground lost yesterday with a 78 making his total 160. De la Torre, the Spaniard, had a total score of 154 and Ockendon 155. The rain ceased and the weather moderated in the early afternoon.

The American hopes soared when Johnny Farrell, the Quaker Ridge, N. Y., professional came in with a 77, giving him a total of 157. Farrell played a remarkable game, being in trouble only once, on the second, when he topped his drive, causing him to take a seven. His second round card follows: Out... 4 7 4 4 4 4 4 5—49 In... 4 4 3 3 3 3 3 4—37—77 W. C. Sherwood of Memphis, Tenn., had a ragged time of it, taking 85 for the second round, making his two-day total 164.

Giants Can't Buy Pitcher Ruether, Robbie Declares

Brooklyn Manager Fears to Strengthen Team He Hopes to Beat in Flag Race.

By Dent McKim.

There is very little possibility that Dutch Ruether, star southpaw of the Brooklyn Dodgers who is said to be in bad grace with the owner, Charlie Ebbets, will come to the Cardinals, if he is transferred from the Brooklyn club. It is known that Ebbets has opened negotiations with several clubs looking toward a trade for Ruether; but he has devoted his attention almost exclusively to teams that are low in the league standing. Yesterday a report emanating from New York intimated that the Giants were after Ruether. It is understood, however, that neither Manager Robinson nor Owner Ebbets of the Dodgers will consider sending the southpaw to New York. Such a trade would be looked upon as treason by Brooklyn fans, and Brooklyn fans must be reckoned with, since they have become quite sanguine over the prospect of Robby's clan.

Cards Lack Training Material. "I really have no men whom I wish to trade," said Manager Rickety of the Cardinals yesterday when asked whether he was dealing for Ruether. "I have not made any move to get Ruether and probably I will not make any." Rickety, Philadelphia or Chicago stand a chance to get Ruether if he will let go of some good material. It is believed Ebbets is reluctant to send him to either the Cardinals, Pirates, Giants or Cincinnati for the reason that he might prove the very undoing of the Brooklyn club by winning games from his present teammates.

Ruether has lost four games and won three this season. He has lost his last two games, one to Pittsburgh and one to St. Louis. He has been a regular spring holdout and his salary demands have not particularly endeared him to the man who pays the bills for the Dodgers.

Hornaby Ready for Work. Rogers Hornaby's left knee, hurt in a game at Philadelphia almost a month ago, is so improved that he will be ready to take his place at second base against the Boston Braves, who open a series with the Cardinals here tomorrow, according to Dr. Robert H. Hyland, club physician.

Hornaby declares the knee ready for hard work. "I experience a little stiffness in running because the muscles about the knee are somewhat stiff. In batting it does not bother me at all," states Hornaby. Rickety says that he will put Hornaby into the game just as soon as Dr. Hyland grants permission.

Americans Easily Win Net Contests In London Event

Johnston Likely to Meet Norton in Final, With British Davis Cup Men Out.

By Herbert T. Bourke.
(Copyright, 1923.)
LONDON, June 12.—International interest in the Kent tennis championships at Beckenham, begun yesterday, is accentuated by the presence of many Americans. William Johnston is making his first tournament appearance of the season and other Americans are Mrs. Mallory and the Misses Eleanor Sears, Elizabeth Ryan, Bancroft and Eleanor Goss.

The draw presents the possibility that Johnston, who looks fitter than on his previous trip to England, will compete with B. L. C. Norton in the final. The British Davis Cup players have withdrawn, owing to the impending tie with Spain at Manchester.

Miss Ryan, Miss Bancroft and Miss Goss are in the upper half of the women's draw. Mrs. Mallory and the Misses Sears are in the lower half. Johnston is paired with Wallace Myers in the men's doubles.

American Women Win.
Mrs. Mallory and Miss Sears both drew byes in the first round. In the second, Mrs. Mallory beat Miss Herbridge, 6-2, 6-2, and Miss Sears scored against Miss Round. Mrs. Mallory was never out of the net. In the third round, Mrs. J. O'Neill of Iowa beat Miss Clark, 6-2, 6-2. Johnston arrived early and stayed late. He seemed tired of waiting for something to do, he played an exhibition match with F. R. L. Crawford, a leading Anglo-Indian player. Johnston won, 6-4, 7-5, but by no means extended himself, as he was pulled out of the match by using his great forehead and clever volleying. Crawford led, 5-3, in the second set, but Johnston appeared to win just when he wanted to. A large crowd had come to see the American star in action, so there was much enthusiasm over his exhibition match.

Wilde Ends Hard Training for His Fight With Villa

Welsh Champion's Handlers Fear Staleness Might Result From Further Work.

By Bert Igoe.
(Copyright, 1923.)
The Post-Dispatch's Eastern Boxing Authority.
NEW YORK, June 12.—Dave Hughes and Ben Williams, the trainers of Jimmy Wilde, the great little Welshman who defends his world's flyweight title against Panchito Villa on the night of June 18 at the Polo Grounds, will stop Wilde from doing any more boxing from now on until the day of the fight with Villa.

Hughes, who has trained and watched over Wilde's condition for the last 12 years, knows the little champion like a book. Yesterday he gave his reason for stopping Wilde's boxing.

"Americans don't know Wilde as I do," says the trainer. "Jimmy Wilde is a natural fighter, a free and easy hitter, and all the boxing he has ever done in the gym has improved his boxing one bit. Oh, of course, he has polished up and moves more smoothly, but what I mean is this: Jimmy fights just the same as he did the day he fought his first professional bout. He can't improve his boxing for the simple reason that he goes into a gym bout with all the earnestness of a real fight. These boys who box with him will tell you that. As a boxer he is as clever as ever he will be, so why let him waste energy and stamina in the gym when he can use it so jolly well in the ring?"

"The real truth of the matter is this. If we allowed Wilde to rip and tear from now on until the fight he would go stale to a certainty. We don't want that. We know the little man well and are doing all that is best for him. It is the first time in his life that he is meeting a man anywhere near his own weight, and he never has been so confident. There is not a chance for us to lose the title."

Herman in Hard Luck.
When Johnny Kilbane went down on the flat of his back before the solid hitting of Eugene Crichtel at the Polo Grounds a little, olive-skinned man sat in one of the bleachers waiting for his turn to go on.

Dempsey's Adviser in Previous Fights to Be In Tom Gibbons' Corner

NEW YORK, June 12.—ADVICES from the Pacific coast received today state that Spider Kelly, one of the shrewdest and most famous seconds of boxers, will be in Tom Gibbons' corner when he fights Jack Dempsey.

Kelly is credited with having planned the battle that gave Dempsey such a quick victory over Willard. Before this Kelly was in Jack's corner in fights which built the Manassa mauler up as a contender for the heavy-weight championship. Among the battles in which Kelly gave advice was Dempsey's first fight against Gunboat Smith and later against Carl Morris, both of which Dempsey won in short order.

Fighters who are superstitious do not like to see valued handlers change corners as Kelly will do in the forthcoming Shelby battle. It will be called that Billy Delaney, Jeffries' old manager, had a feud with Jeff and seconded Johnson when the negro defeated the Californian.

In the semi-final. That chap was "Babe" Herman, and as Kilbane settled on the back of his gray head Babe Herman turned to one of his handlers and said: "That's the luck of the game. I've been trying to get that old fellow for three years, and along comes a total stranger to us and wins his title without getting his hair mussed. I could have been champion in quicker time than Crichtel."

Babe Herman has lost only one real fight since he began, and that to Pepper Martin in the first minute of their fight in Madison Square Garden.

PATSY WALLACE WINS FROM JOHNNY BUFF

PARIS, June 12.—The Boxing Federation has ruled that Battling Siki must meet Marcel Nilles July 8 as scheduled before he leaves for New York. The penalty for disobeying this mandate will be disqualification for life. Siki said he intends to sail for New York June 22.

Yale's Coaching Staff Is Facing Difficult Task

Eli Eleven Weak at Both Guards, Fullback and Ends, Due to Loss of Stars.

By Walter Camp.
(Copyright, 1923.)

NEW YORK, June 12.—Tad Jones and his Yale football coaching staff are realizing today that they have a hefty job on their hands. Last year Yale did not have as much difficulty in stopping organized plays as the opposition as she did in checking individual brilliancy, such as that of Owen of Harvard. Nor did she encounter so much difficulty in gaining ground in midfield as in selecting a strong play that, if extremely, would shove the ball across the goal line.

There is much to be done along these lines of the 1922 weaknesses, especially in view of the loss of her stalwart guards and that line-smashing whale, Doc Jordan. Jordan will return as a coach this year, taking "Mac" Aldrich's place. If he can only unearth as great a line plunger as himself, his employment would indeed be worth while. Yale will miss the driving power of the husky blond giant.

Fuller and Comerford, as in 1922, will have charge of the line men and the ends. The ends have been a total stranger to us and wins his title without getting his hair mussed. I could have been champion in quicker time than Crichtel."

Babe Herman has lost only one real fight since he began, and that to Pepper Martin in the first minute of their fight in Madison Square Garden.

Yale Timers Vindicated.

The timers who officiated at the Yale interscholastic games, recently, are feeling better about their ability, now that young Frank Hussey, the Stuyvesant High School boy, has turned off his 100 yards in 9.3-5s and joined Paddock, Puffy and Kelly as stars of the century.

Hussey was credited with 9.4-5s, at New Haven, but the timers did not exhibit their watches. They do say that the man whose watch showed 9.4-10s, is not so anxious now about the reliability of his timepiece or his muscular co-ordination as he was a few days ago, before Hussey came back with an even better effort. The writer is not at all sure that the boy flyer did not do 9.3-5 at the Yale meet.

Until our timing is placed on a

Gibbons in First Real Workout

Challenger Launches Upon Training Grind in Preparation for Dempsey.

SHELBY, Mont., June 12.—Under a blazing Montana sun, Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul challenger, went through his first real workout here yesterday in preparation for his title bout with Jack Dempsey on July 4.

Several hundred visitors, many of them women, thronged Gibbons' camp to watch the challenger unlimber against three sparring partners after a strenuous day which included a 14-mile run, rope skipping, bag punching, and calisthenics.

The challenger, after his workout, declared he was rapidly becoming acclimated and that his breathing was improving. He stepped from the ring apparently as fresh as the proverbial daisy.

Bud Gorman, Kenosha heavy-weight, provided the challenger with a fast two rounds. Gibbons' left was working well and his footwork was as rapid and elusive as ever.

more scientific basis, these track records are almost meaningless from the standpoint of accuracy. But the writer wishes to go on record as saying that if Paddock and Hussey, veteran and novice, are in the pink of condition they will make any foreign sprinter fly to beat them to the tape in the Olympic games.

Joie Ray Had Little Chance at Cambridge to Break Norman Tabor's Mark for the Mile Run.

Joie Ray had little chance at Cambridge to break Norman Tabor's mark for the mile run. That mark is getting further away from the Chicago runner all the time. If it came to him, it would be through his recovery of some of the vitality which he spent so freely during the winter months in sustained sprints after the handicap men. He must store more energy for his final great foe.

SIGEL-HARRISON TITLE CONTEST IS POSTPONED

The game between the Sigel and Harrison School teams for the championship of the Public School Baseball League, which was scheduled to be played at High School Field at 4 o'clock this afternoon has been postponed.

The game probably will be played Thursday afternoon, inasmuch as the Sigel School will hold its annual picnic tomorrow. This is the second time the title game has been postponed because of rain.

The winning team will hold the Post-Dispatch trophy for one year and the players receive individual gold medals.

THROWING POINTS WILL BE DISCOURAGED IN IMPORTANT NET MATCHES

Throwing points will be discouraged during important tournaments this season if the National Tennis Umpires' Association has its way. For a number of years this practice has been carried on in various tournaments by many leading players.

In outlining his attitude on this matter, R. Clifford Black, chairman of the Umpires' Association, said: "Lawn tennis has its paradox. Why should a player striving to win deliberately give points to his opponent if he thinks a mistake has been made in his favor by a linesman or umpire? It is undoubtedly due to the fine sporting ideals of tennis not found in any other game. Imagine the baseball pitcher replying by throwing the next ball wide of the plate if he thinks the umpire has unjustly called a strike."

"Players should be made to feel that the time has come to stop this throwing of points. With the better class of umpiring that has been inaugurated by the Umpires' Association during the past few years, the last excuse has disappeared. This excuse was to show an extreme spirit of fairness to one's opponent. Many arguments have been marshaled against the practice. It is a direct reflection on the ability of a hard-working linesman or umpire. If players can better themselves, why have linesmen at all? Besides, the player is quite as likely to be wrong as the official. It savors strongly of gallery play and is done in no other game. It shows disrespect to the rules of lawn tennis, which make the umpire and linesmen the only judges of play. It puts an opponent in an embarrassing position, for he may consider a later decision doubtful only and be upset by the thought that the same thing is now expected of him."

AUSTIN COLLEGE STAR WILL JOIN CARDINALS

By the Associated Press.
SHERMAN, Tex., June 12.—Carlisle Littlejohn, pitcher, for two years a star on Austin College baseball team here, is to report to the St. Louis Cardinals today as an infielder, according to word received from Roy Finley, attorney for the Cardinals. Littlejohn hails from Hillsboro, Tex., and is reputed to be one of the fastest Texas College baseball products of recent years.

RICHARDS, HUNTER AND HOOVER SAIL FOR EUROPE

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 12.—Another American invasion of British athletic fields is scheduled to get under way today with the departure of Vincent Richards and Francis T. Hunter, metropolitan tennis stars, and Walter Hoover of Duluth, sculling champion, who have booked passage on the Aquitania.

Hunter and Richards will join other American net stars in quest of laurels in the last "world's championships" at Wimbledon, beginning June 25, while Hoover will defend the historic diamond sculls trophy.

EUDELIN DENIES HE WILL MANAGE SIKI

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 12.—Robert Euclidean, manager of Eugene Crichtel, the new world's featherweight champion, today denied that he had any connection with the proposed visit to the United States by Battling Siki, Senegalese light-heavyweight. Siki was quoted in Paris dispatches as saying that he would place himself under Euclidean's management here.

"Siki has asked me on several occasions to take charge of his ring affairs," said Euclidean, "but under no circumstances will I do so. I know nothing whatever of his impending trip to this country."

NEW YORK, June 12.—"It's a long way to the finish of the season, the Cleveland Indians are still on the course mapped out at the start of the year, and they are better today than they were this day a year ago."

This opinion was expressed today by Tris Speaker. It was said in no boasting spirit.

Speaker's reference to the better standing of his team this year is plainly borne out by a look at the percentage column. In June, 1922, the Indians were floundering about, never as high as .500, and some of the time around .475 and .450, with .480 as the maximum. This year their percentage has been as high as .575. Against this much better showing of the Indians—which in figures amounts to about 95 points—must be considered the better showing this

Sarazen Marvels at Showing of 52-Year-Old British Medalist

Other Middle-Aged Britons, Var don, Herd and Taylor, Make Fine Showing in First Qualifying Round of the British Open Golf Championship—8 Strokes on One Hole Ruin Hagen's Score.

By Gene Sarazen.
World's Champion Golfer.

TROON, Scotland, June 12.—At the end of my first round in the quest for the British championship crown yesterday, I had no reason to be dissatisfied with my play. I think all of the American boys did very well.

Of course it was only the qualifying rounds in which we played yesterday and today; and while we were all out to do our best, I personally did not wish to force myself to any great extent.

I was out to avoid getting any sides into my card and was determined to keep my ball in the middle of the course and take no serious risks in striving for great lengths with my drives. There was a heavy wind blowing and the greens were very trying.

A deluge of rain over the weekend followed by a very hot Sunday afternoon had made the grass tops sportswomen. I wanted to do well and the spectators seemed pleased when I did well. That good feeling instinctively helped me considerably.

Braid Twice Sarazen's Age.

On the municipal course I was three strokes worse than that great and wonderful fellow James Braid who has been asked so often to our country but who has never yet been induced to cross the Atlantic.

Braid is fifty-two years old—an old man to American people. He is just twice my age but looks like a big fit fellow and is cool and quiet about all he does. He finished with a 72-score, the low medal for the day.

Old men of Great Britain all did well. John Henry Taylor (76), Harry Vardon (76) and Sandy Herd (79) all were well in the running. The American boys, as I said before, did very well, considering the wind which changed around to the north making the course quite different to what we had practiced on.

There was big talk about the punch-faced clubs which were ruled out; but I have no objection to the decision, although I think that the decision should have been made a fortnight earlier and not at the eleventh hour. This would have given all the boys using these clubs a chance to get acquainted with the distances.

It made it rather hard to go into the match with strange clubs, but the Americans who have been used to the smooth faced as well as the punched faced clubs should do better as the week goes on.

Just before I started Walter Hagen was kind enough to give me a little bit of advice, telling me not to try to under-club myself. I tried to follow his advice, but I made the mistake several times of under-clubbing.

This was not the result of any chance, but simply playing in hard, fierce winds which prevailed on this beautiful course on the coast of Scotland.

How Sarazen Made His 75.

To run over my round briefly, I took three putts at the first hole while I played par on the second to the fifth.

At the sixth hole I overplayed my second. Following the wind the ball got too high and it went over the green. I took five which, was one too many.

The seventh and eighth I had in par, but at the ninth after getting off very straight, I missed the hole which was covering the pin all the way, my ball kicked out to the right into a trap. I had a good shot out, but I had a bit of luck then, for my ball struck a spectator or I would have been in another bunker.

At the tenth hole I took four putts from about 4 feet off the edge of the green. Then I had three putts at the twelfth.

At the thirteenth I played wild. There was no trouble on either side going out.

At the fourteenth my lack of experience in playing into the wind told, for I took a massive iron where I should have taken a midiron. I finished up to the last four holes in par play and did a 75. My figures were:

Out..... 5 4 3 4 4 5 3 5 5—38
In..... 4 4 4 3 3 4 5 3 5—37

Hagen in Bad Fortune.

McDonald Smith had a fine 75 round, but Walter Hagen found the breaks going against him, doing an 82. Walter was going all right until the seventh hole. He had been putting just a little cautiously, but his score was quite all right. After his drive to the seventh he went away amongst the gorse bushes and when he came up to it he found his ball buried deep in the bushes. If he had tried to play it out he would have gotten into further trouble, so thick was it.

His Scottish caddy said: "You will need a scotch."

After much thinking Walter went back to the tee and drove another ball. This hole cost him eight, but he soon recovered from the bad effects and had some excellent holes on the last nine.

TENNIS IS BOOMING IN IRELAND; PLAYERS URGED TO BE POLITE

Tennis is booming in Ireland, and a number of new clubs have joined the association. From the national point of view the first item of importance is the fact that Ireland has now become an independent body.

One resolution passed at the recent annual meeting of the Irish body is interesting. It reads:—

"That the association is of opinion and desirous to impress upon its members that it would greatly lead to the prestige of Irish lawn tennis and Irish sportsmanship generally if the decision of umpires was accepted by players cheerfully and without questioning, and that all manifestations of surprised dissent should be scrupulously avoided."

BROWER, OF INDIANS, OUT FOR TWO WEEKS

By the Associated Press.
CLEVELAND, O., June 12.—Frank Brower, first baseman of the Cleveland Indians, will be out of the game for at least two weeks as a result of injuries received in Sunday's game at New York, according to advices received here. An X-ray revealed that he broke the small bone in his right shin when he slid into home plate. Brower played the initial sack in games in which a right-handed pitcher opposed the Indians.

BOB EDGAR TRADED BY FORT SMITH TO WACO

By the Associated Press.
FORT SMITH, Ark., June 12.—Bob Edgar, shortstop, secured by Fort Smith from the Syracuse (N. Y.) club of the International League at the start of the 1923 season, today was sold to Waco of the Texas Association, the local management announced.

Edgar formerly belonged to the St. Louis Cardinals. He is a product of the Washington University team.

MORE THAN 800 BOYS IN TUBERCULOSIS DAY RACE NEXT THURSDAY

Officials for the girls' relay shuttle race and for the boys' flag day marathon, both of which are to be run in connection with the tuberculosis ball game at Sportsman's Park, Thursday afternoon, have been announced and final arrangements for these two events have been concluded.

Entries for both events closed yesterday and the largest field in the history of the junior marathon will start on Thursday at 3 o'clock. Even allowing for the necessary eliminations caused by failure to pass the physical test to which all entrants will be subjected, it is expected that there will be between 800 and 900 boys in the race.

Thirty-three teams are entered for the girls' relay shuttle race. This will take place on the grounds at Sportsman's Park, beginning at 1:30. Girls in this contest are from 12 to 15 years, inclusive, and represent practically every district in the city and county, coming from public, parochial and private schools and from municipal and neighborhood playgrounds.

J. F. Oberwinder, chairman of the General Arrangements Committee, announced that in the event of rain on Thursday the carnival will take place on Friday and will in all respects be exactly as planned for Thursday.

The proceeds of this day will go to the Tuberculosis Society of St. Louis and will be used in fighting tuberculosis in this city and county, Oberwinder said.

PITTSBURG, June 12.—Jack Zivich, Pittsburgh, last night was given a newspaper decision over Charlie White, Chicago, in a 10-round bout here. They are lightweights.

21 YACHTS IN RACE FROM NEW LONDON TO BERMUDA, 662 MILES

By the Associated Press.
NEW LONDON, Conn., June 12.—More than 100 yachtsmen and one woman in 21 small boats in a quest of high adventure, will leave tomorrow in a 662-mile race across the tempestuous gulf stream to Bermuda. It was the largest ocean race ever held and an outcome of the modern tendency for stanch rather than speedy craft for pleasure service.

The boats will represent half a score of yacht clubs on the Atlantic Coast and two from Bermuda. The yachts will be divided into two classes, with several subdivisions and a number of private matches, while the chief incentives for the race are prizes by several enthusiastic followers, including Herbert L. Stone, editor of "Yachting," and commodore of the Cruising Club of America, who organized the contest. The start will be from the mouth of the Thames and the course, after running out of Long Island Sound, will be straightaway, south, southeast 640 miles, with the finish at St. David's Head, off St. George's, Bermuda.

RAY GRIMES OF CUBS TO UNDERGO OPERATION

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, June 12.—Ray Grimes, Chicago Cubs' first baseman, walked into the Herroth Memorial Hospital tonight, where he will undergo an operation tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Dr. W. R. Cubbins will perform the operation.

The nurse declared the Cub's player was feeling fine and in a happy mood.

CRIQUI ON EXHIBITION TOUR OF EIGHTY CITIES

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 12.—Benoist Criqui of France, new world's featherweight boxing champion, will give ring exhibitions in four American cities during the next few weeks, his manager, Robert Delant, announced yesterday.

Criqui, who won the 126-pound title by knocking out the veteran John Kilbane recently, will start his tour at Fall River, Mass., June 18. He will appear in Philadelphia, June 20, Portland, Me., June 20, and Syracuse, N. Y., June 22.

His Canadian itinerary has not been completed, but it will begin at Montreal, June 25, and include visits to Quebec and Toronto.

The greatest contributions to tire making since Cord Tires were invented—developed by the United States Rubber Company Sprayed Rubber—The first actually pure rubber.

The New Web Cord—the first true rubber-webbed cord structure—doing away with all cross tie-threads and all causes of flexion-resistance. The new Web Cord has proved itself to be the most resilient, the most resistant to puncture, the longest wearing tire construction since cord tires were invented.

The New Flat-Band Method of building Cord Tires—the first building method to ensure equal angles, equal length, equal tension and equal service, in all the cords of a Cord Tire.

FOR some time now, motorists of this country have been riding on "U. S." Royal Cord Tires built on a new principle. Unannounced, but delivering a service that has been unquestionably the outstanding tire performance, since the beginning of the automobile.

This may explain why you hear people saying everywhere that "U. S." Royal Cords are the most uniform tires.

It is now announced that these tires are built of "U. S." Web Cord by the Flat-Band Method.

The New "U. S." Web Cord

Some time ago, the rubber technicians of this Company discovered this remarkable fact about latex—the milky liquid which flows from a rubber tree when it is tapped—

Latex, in its original form, has a natural affinity for cotton.

That is, the cotton fibres will soak up natural latex, where they resist chemical solutions of rubber.

With this new principle established, here is how Web Cord is made:

A Complete Impregnation of Pure Rubber

The tire cords are immersed in the pure latex brought direct from the Company's Far East plantations.

The latex penetrates through and through every cord.

The cords are then laid side by side and are webbed together into a sheet by a film of natural rubber that permeates and surrounds each cord.

By this method, there is no possibility of injury to the fabric by chemical reaction or by forcing the rubber under great pressure into the fabric. No danger of chemical reaction weakening the rubber, nor of dissolving the natural oils and wax in the cotton.

Take a piece of Web Cord construction apart.

Tear off one of the cords. The rubber-web clings and stretches. Pick the individual thread to pieces—down to the last minute filament. The rubber-web clings and stretches.

The most homogeneous cord structure ever invented.

The most elastic. The most resistant to puncture and wear.

Placing the tread material on the flat band tire building machine.

The tire on the inflating machine—first stage.

The New "U. S." Flat-Band Method of Building a Cord Tire

Now, working with the New "U. S." Web Cord—here is the way a tire is built by the Flat-Band Method.

The tire is built in the form of a flat band upon a drum, instead of around a metal core the shape of a tire.

The plies of cord are laid and fitted by hand, on this drum.

The angle and length of every cord in each ply are predetermined. So that every cord is working under conditions of equal stretch and tension.

The flat band is then gently formed to tire shape by an easy air pressure, so that every thread moves freely to its normal position. The tire is then vulcanized with the elastic pressure of a gas against its inner surface, thus ensuring absolute uniformity of compaction in the tire walls.

There is no variation in the twist of the individual cords. Each is forced to accept its share of the load.

The result is a uniform tire, equalized throughout in resiliency and resistance to wear—with every individual cord contributing its full strength.

A cord tire that fulfills, at last, the conception of what a cord tire should be and do.

The New "U. S." Sprayed Rubber

Sprayed Rubber is the result of a new scientific process of obtaining crude rubber from rubber latex.

Instead of coagulating rubber out of the latex with smoke or chemicals—the only methods known heretofore—latex is sprayed in a snow-white mist into super-heated air. The water is driven out of it—nothing else.

Sprayed Rubber is uniform in

The tire two-thirds inflated under precise air pressure from within.

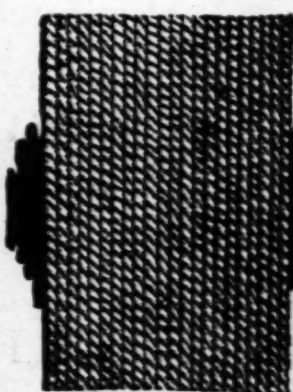

The fully shaped tire ready for vulcanization—each cord precisely the same in length and angle.

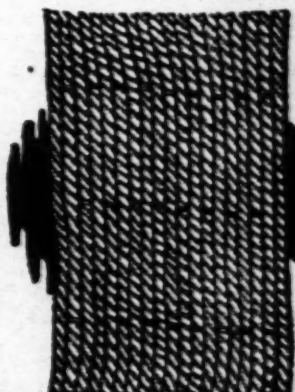

quality—an impossibility with the former processes. It vulcanizes to perfection.

It is believed that these developments—the new Web Cord, Flat-Band Method of building a cord tire, and Sprayed Rubber—mean more to the rubber industry than anything that has been accomplished since the discovery of vulcanization in 1839.

These developments are the basis for a new and higher art of rubber manufacture, developed by the United States Rubber Company, and protected by American and foreign patents.

Drawn from an ENLARGED photograph of a section of the new Web Cord. The position of the cords absolutely uniform. No tie-threads.

Drawn from an ENLARGED photograph of a section of ordinary cord fabric. Note the cross tie-threads which have a sewing action in a finished tire, and the irregularity of position of the cords.

NO longer is there any excuse for wrinkles! A new discovery of Science proves it. With this wonderful new treatment, it is just as if a magic wand were waved across your face—banishing every tired line, every laugh or frown wrinkle, every tell-tale mark of time! Why permit your beauty and attractiveness to be spoiled by the tragic lines that foretell the end of youth? Here, at last, is a quick, easy and inexpensive way to rid your skin of every trace of wrinkles. You will be amazed at the results brought by the very first treatments!

How It Works
Unlike many so-called "wrinkle eradicators," this new discovery, called Domino Wrinkle Cream, does not attempt to cover up or conceal the lines or wrinkles. Instead, it gets right at the very cause of wrinkles, removes it in a perfectly natural and harmless way, and as it does so the wrinkles and lines are actually lifted out! They disappear almost before you realize it. No tedious massaging, no harmful lotions. Simply apply a small quantity of this delightful fragrant cream to the wrinkles to be removed. Press it gently into the skin. Remove it after a short while—then note the results. Even after the first few days you will find that your face has grown years younger looking.

$187,166 LIQUOR FINES COLLECTED IN 2 YEARS

Haynes' Report Covers Period in Federal Court Here Ending June 30, 1932.

Fines aggregating $256,471 for violations of the Federal prohibition laws were assessed in Federal Court here in the two years ending June 30, 1932, and of this amount $187,166.74 was collected, it was shown in a report by Commissioner of Prohibition Haynes, made public at Washington yesterday. Jail sentences totaling 243 months also were imposed here during the same period. The number of cases prosecuted was 1988, and 1563 resulted in convictions.

"Missouri is one of the States which has through its own laws assumed concurrent responsibility with the Federal Government for the enforcement of prohibition," the report stated.

"The State law provides a penalty for the sale of intoxicants causing death. An injunction may be obtained to abate as a nuisance the illegal sale of liquor. Possession of deadly firearms by one unlawfully engaged in the manufacture, sale or transportation of liquor constitutes a felony."

"A new 1923 law makes it a penitentiary offense, with a penalty of two years, for carrying deadly weapons in a vehicle transporting liquor. State officials may be removed for dereliction of duty in regard to liquor law violations. Possession of apparatus for the illicit manufacture of liquor is a misdemeanor and the use of such equipment is a felony. A first offense by the illegal use of a still for the manufacture for sale of intoxicating liquor constitutes a felony."

The report stated that during the two years ending June 30, 1932, 339 stills, 6760 gallons of whiskey and 1,084,320 gallons on mash were destroyed in Missouri. Of Missourians arrested for liquor law violations during the two years, the report said, 50 per cent were foreign born, 12 per cent of these not being naturalized.

Other fruits may be substituted for dates and served with grapefruit in the same manner.

INDUSTRIALS OFF, RAILS IRREGULAR ON STOCK MARKET

Oils Weak in Late Session—Bonds Rule Firm—New Low on German Mark in Exchange Market.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Sales to 3 p. m. on the New York Stock Exchange today were 529,400 shares, compared with 503,100 yesterday. Sales to noon were 304,500.

Following are today's high, low and closing prices for stocks on the Stock Exchange.

With trading still comparatively quiet today's market displayed a slightly heavy tone. In stocks the cleavage between industrials and rails continued to be apparent, to the advantage of the latter class of securities. A tendency toward profit-taking in industrials was apparent from the start, but activity was a small scale until the last hour, when short selling was resumed in fair volume. Oils were particularly weak on rumors with regard to the crude oil position and a number of industrial leaders were off about 1 point at the close. Rails meanwhile were steady during the morning, but fell back into irregularity in the afternoon. Bonds were firm, with the new American issue selling around 91 and the rate on call money was reduced from 8 per cent to 4 1/2 during the fourth hour.

Exchange Market Quiet.

Quietness continued in the foreign exchange market, traders still awaiting news as to the progress of negotiations between France and Great Britain. Practically the only exception to the general condition was furnished by French francs, which were offered rather generally and rather freely, apparently on misgivings as to the attitude of the British Cabinet with regard to passive resistance in the Ruhr and as to the probable French action in case England refused to join in the demand that this resistance cease. In any event, francs lost 6 1/2 cents, at 4 1/2 cents. Most of this decline occurred after the opening on this side of the water. Belgian francs and Italian lire suffered sympathetic but smaller losses and German marks dropped 1 1/2 points to a new low of 0.011 1/2. The reaction in marks undoubtedly is being accelerated by disclosure of the fact that the Reichsbank circulation is being nearly one trillion a week. Sterling, meanwhile, was firm in the early trading, touching 44 1/2 and being off only 1/2 cent after receding to 44 1/2. Most of the other Europeans were slightly lower.

Cotton Prices React.

Cotton reacted sharply after yesterday's large advance, a good part of the previous gain wiped out. Lower prices at Liverpool and better weather in the South, however, were chief factors in the decline, the market being fairly active and largely under the influence of professional operations. July was off 52 points at a late price of 23 1/2 cents.

Wheat Prices Also Heavy.

Wheat prices also were heavy. Speculative interest continued to be conspicuous by its absence and the July future lost 1/2 of a cent at 11 1/2.

UNION ELECTRIC ASKED TO EXPLAIN TRANSFER

Public Service Commission Seeks Details on Transaction Involving Light & Development Co.

The Public Service Commission has asked attorneys for the Union Electric Light and Power Co. a series of questions concerning the details of the transaction by which the North American Company acquired control of the Light and Development Co., which the Union company now seeks permission of the Commission to purchase from the North American. The Commission has set June 19 as date for a hearing and answer to the questions, which follow:

"First—What were the actual details of the settlement between the North American Co. and the stockholders of the Light and Development Co., pursuant to the contract as entered into between the munder date of a.J.N. 22, 1932?"

"A. How many shares and the par value thereof of the North American Co. were issued to the stockholders of the Light and Development Co.?"

"B. How many shares and the par value thereof of the preferred stock of the Union Electric Light and Power Co. were delivered to the stockholders of the Light and Development Co.?"

"C. How much cash was paid by the North American Co. to their stockholders of the Light and Development Co.?"

"The commission desires to know how the purchase price was finally arrived at and the amount thereof, the same to be shown separately for the stock of the Light and Development Co. and each of its subsidiaries on the basis set forth in the contract between the North American Co. and the Light and Development Co.?"

"Third—When did the North American Co. contract with the Co. for the purchase of the Union Electric Light and Power Co.'s preferred stock for use in purchasing the stock of the Light and Development Co.?"

"When was the stock for such purpose issued and delivered and what was the consideration therefor?"

"How many shares of the stock of the Union Electric Light and Power Co. was owned at the time by the North American Co.?"

The commission is seeking to learn the details of the transactions because of the statement by the city in opposing approval of the purchase, that the North American Co. acquired the Light and Development Co. at one price and resold to the Union company, its subsidiary, at a higher figure.

The Union company has declared that it paid exactly what the North American paid for the Light and Development Co.

BOARD OF ESTIMATE REPLIES TO SINKING FUND CRITICISMS

Tells Municipal Research Bureau That Fund Is Now Invested as Charter Requires.

The Bureau of Municipal Research has revived with the Board of Estimate and Apportionment the old controversy, over the city's practice of taking money from its sinking fund, when in need of cash, and repaying the sum when the next installment of taxes is collected.

The Board of Estimate yesterday replied to criticism by the bureau, declaring that at present the sinking fund is being invested as required by the letter of the charter in legal securities. The Bureau of Municipal Research contends that the availability of sinking fund money and the practice of borrowing it for current expenses tends toward a deficit, and that no deficit could be created if the funds were not so used. It declares that it is more economical to invest the sinking funds in securities and gain the interest therefrom and to borrow cash when needed, than to make the sinking fund available as cash.

REED COUNSEL IN SUIT AGAINST MEXICO FOR $1,064,000

Senator Represents New York, Corporation in Damage Action Based On Seizure of Rail Equipment.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 12.—James A. Reed, United States Senator from Missouri, was admitted to the New York bar yesterday to serve as counsel for the Oliver American Trading Co., Inc. in a suit to recover $1,064,000 from the Government of Mexico and from the Mexican National Railways for alleged seizures of property.

Senator Reed appeared before Federal Judge Knox in his chambers in connection with a motion made last January for dismissal of the suit on the ground that, despite the fact that Mexico is not recognized by the United States Government and cannot be sued without its consent, Judge Knox told Senator Reed he had reached a decision and was ready to make a ruling if such should be necessary in view of the change in the relationships between Mexico and the United States. He intimated that if it is the wish of the State Department, he would withhold decision to allow the claim to be amicably adjusted through diplomatic negotiations.

The Oliver American Trading Co. in its suit alleged that in 1921 the defendants commandeered a number of locomotives and cars for which no payment was made.

HERE is a Clothes Basket new to St. Louis women. It is a convenience every housewife owes herself. A light pull with your finger and the legs unfold so that the Basket stands high up off the ground. No more tiresome bending over when you hang the clothes out on the line. A slight pressure of the thumb and the legs fold up. It is a marvelously convenient Basket and you can get one absolutely free by placing your order now for a SUNBEAM ELECTRIC WASHER—the new name of the time-proven SURF.

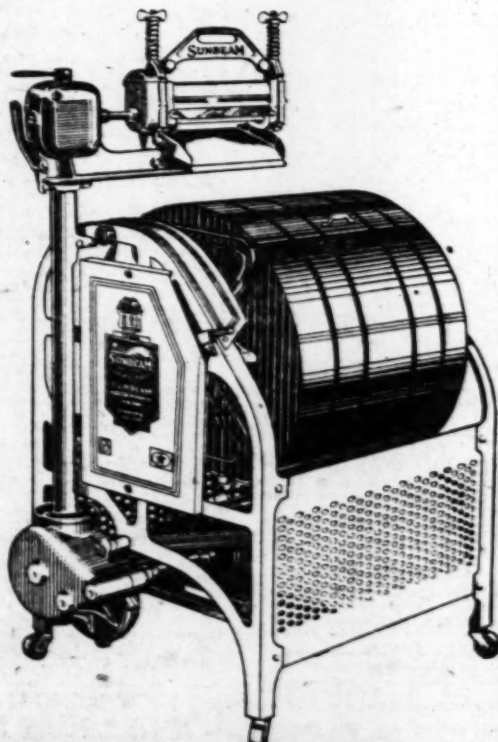

The SUNBEAM is the only washer manufactured that combines oscillating motion and natural vacuum suction. This union of two of the most efficient mechanical cleansing forces in one washer now makes it possible to wash clothes clean by the action of soapy water alone. Just think what a saving of clothes that means! We certainly believe that the Sunbeam washes clothes clean so carefully, so quickly and so easily that it is the washer every woman should use. It is sturdily built for years of service.

Your Choice of 2 Sizes

You have your choice of two sizes in this beautiful and efficient Washer. The six-sheet capacity tub is just the size for small families. The eight-sheet capacity is for average families, and is the most popular Sunbeam model.

The Sunbeam washes so carefully by action of the water alone that your finest garments—crepe mator, crepe de chine and Georgette—are cleaned with absolute safety. Yet so thorough is the surf-like driving force of the water and its undertow suction that it cleans even the heaviest blanket.

Seeking the Bones of Pocahontas, American Indian Princess, in Old English Burial Ground

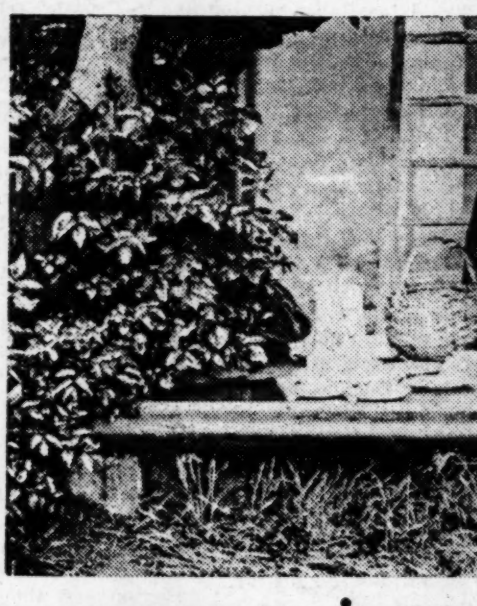

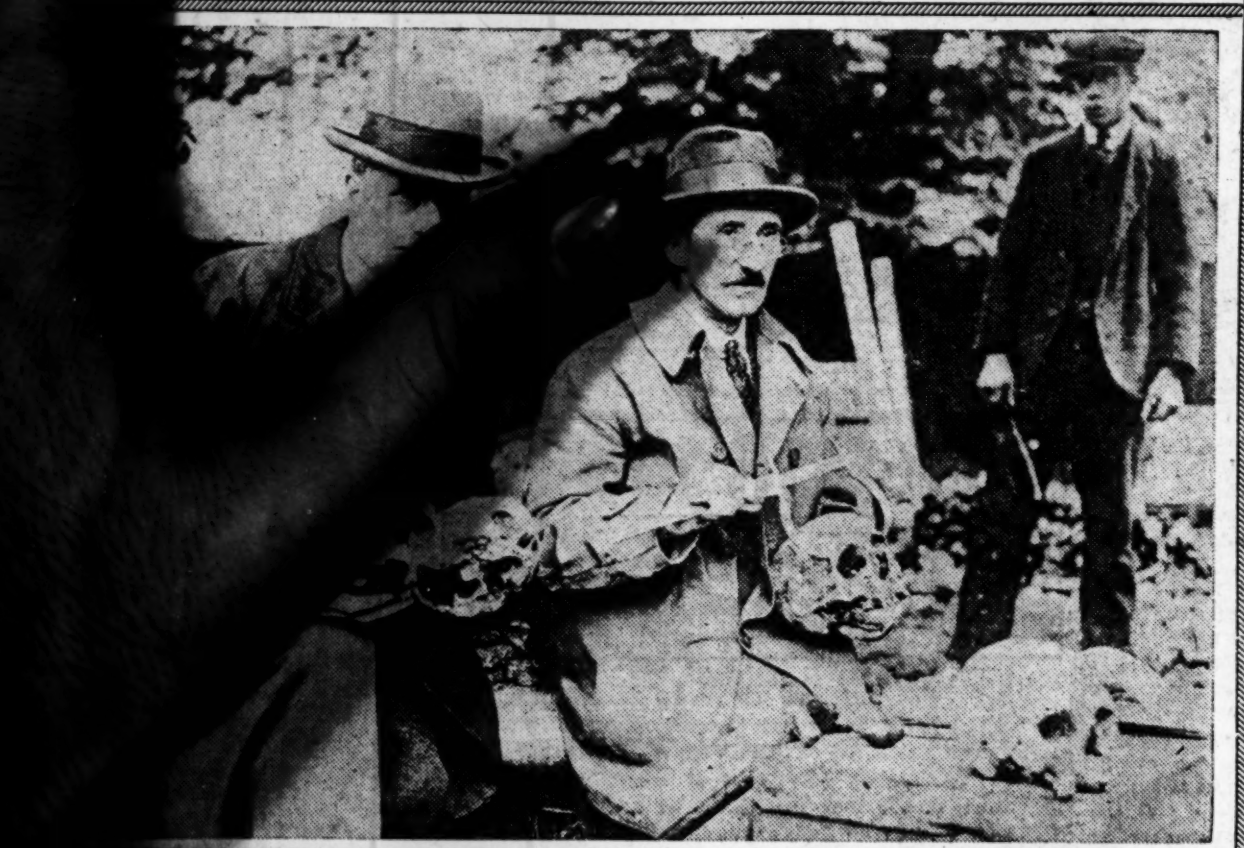

(1) A view of the closely packed little cemetery in St. George's Churchyard at Gravesend, where the remains of Pocahontas are supposed to have been buried. In the foreground is an opening to a tomb that was believed to have been here.

(2) The actual work of removing earth from the tombs and examining it for bones when it was taken out in buckets. The letter A marks Edward Page Gaston of Chicago, who led the search with a view to bringing the Princess' bones back to America for interment under a suitable monument. The letter B marks Cannon Gates, the blind rector of St. George's Church who consented to the opening of the tombs though the plan was quite generally disapproved throughout England.

(3) Gaston (on the left) and Prof. W. P. Pyecroft, anthropologist of the British museum, examining and measuring skulls taken from the tombs in St. George's churchyard to ascertain if any of them were Indian. Only one was found to suggest Indian origin and it was not considered as by any possibility being Pocahontas.

(4) One of the reasons why British resentment at the invasion of the churchyard by the headhunters became open anger. The little burial ground was the objective of numerous excursion parties, the members of which took their lunches and spread them upon the horizontal gravestones which they used as tables. They would spend the whole day watching the excavation work in curious idleness. The criticism became so vigorous finally, even Lord Curzon, British Foreign Minister, joining in it, that Gaston finally gave up the search pending the discovery of more definite information of the exact burial place.

Ship of Matrimony Goes on Rocks When Jealousy Creeps in, Asserts Author

Capt. Maxwell Who Wrote the "Devil's Garden," Tells How Wounds from the Green-Eyed Monster Can Be Avoided.

By RUTH SNYDER.

"JEALOUSY is the worst rock on which the ship of marriage splits. It is a rock not charted."

"In my opinion, the woman is apt to be far more jealous than the man. The man is immersed in other occupations, and moreover, he is sustained by a sort of self-confidence that is peculiar to his idiotic sex."

"A man will consider his wife's love as a sort of solid gilt-edged investment, which he doesn't expect to fluctuate. By the time he begins to suspect that its value or quotation is going down he has probably made a total loss."

These are some of the opinions of Capt. W. B. Maxwell, author of "The Devil's Garden," "Spinster of This Parish," and other stories, has given out in his first interview in the United States. The best introduction that can be given to Capt. Maxwell lies in the words of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, who has said: "I have long thought that Maxwell was the greatest of British novelists."

Capt. Maxwell is well past middle age, but very youthful in thoughts and in actions. Despite the fact that he was well over military age at the outbreak of the war, he volunteered in 1914 and served until the end of 1916. He greets one very courteously, apologizes for a slow, dull wit, and one smiles. He is—very English, from his white spots to his delightfully British mannerisms.

"Jealousy is the worse rock on which the ship of marriage splits," he began in response to my request that he talk of the jealousy which forms a major part of his new book, "The Day's Journey." "It is a rock not charted. Suddenly one gets on to it and one feels one's self absolutely going to pieces without any means of escape. This is, of course, when the emotion or passion of jealousy is once seriously aroused. Yet, on the other hand, would one desire jealousy to be lacking in the person one loves? No. For, in fact, it springs directly from the strength of the love and it cannot be sustained without it."

"So far as husbands are concerned," Capt. Maxwell continued, "his light blue eyes keen and intense, they are extremely imprudent and, so to speak, trifling, with the first signs of jealousy in their wives. For instance, an affectionate and admiring wife will in the beginning facetiously remark that her husband is attractive to other women. At that moment the husband should put his foot down on this worm in their love. He should stamp it out of existence. But, unfortunately, he, too often from vainglory or fatuous self-conceit, will encourage this fiction. It is in the later stage of the game, when the wife begins to feel her own charms waning, that the real jealousy shows. She thinks of feeble denunciations—his admissions perhaps that he admires Mrs. Brown or Mrs. Smith—and suddenly the flame blazes.

"It is this phase of the distress that I have endeavored to show in 'The Day's Journey.' The jealous woman proceeds from point to point: until her jealousy becomes almost a monomania. In fact, nothing the husband does or says can exonerate or exculpate him. This is an extreme—but nevertheless—a type of the genuinely affectionate wife who is eaten up and burnt up by the agonizing fire that her husband is systematically betraying her.

"No words that I can say can adequately express the deep pain of jealousy to a wife who still loves her husband and if I wanted to preach a sermon, I might exhort husbands to remember the amount of pain that they can inflict in this regard. There comes into it that dreadful, dull change, that total loss of enthusiasm that husbands permit themselves in regard to wives after a certain number of years of marriage—when they begin to forget the anniversary of their wedding day, the birthday of the wife; when they cease to notice whether the wife is wearing the same old frock or a new one; when he replies to her lament that she is not looking her best: 'I do not see any difference.'"

"Faults such as these are not only wrong but dangerous," Capt. Maxwell continued, lighting a cigarette. "They sow the small seeds of pain. As to preventing jealousy—I suppose it may be summed up in that wonderful and marvelous marriage service. The man makes his vows then and 999 out of a thousand men truly mean to keep them. But they forget to go on proving their fidelity. And the wife looks at the fading picture in her looking glass and perhaps asks herself: 'How did I get him then and how shall I hold him now?'"

"Then, to sum up," concluded Capt. Maxwell, "the way to keep the good ship matrimony from going on the rocks is to keep attentive—no, to flame into being the little spark of jealousy that is founded on the strength of real love."

of the most significant, as well. On this occasion all the aged are brought before the throngs and shown the most beautiful veneration. Bouquets, badges of honor, reminiscences, songs of long ago, and other touches of tender regard for the aged contribute to the beauty of the ceremony.

While the Kansas City idea of Veneration Day is a very good one, a list of definite ways for observance of the occasion will greatly assist in spreading the cause and in making it permanent. May I offer a few of these, with the suggestion that the children perform the deed:

Carry flowers to the aged. Send tokens of regard to all shut-ins. Call and visit the grandparents. Call by telephone and inquire about the aged. Write a letter to your own or somebody's grandparents. Give a party with the aged as special guests. Sing a song or tell a story especially for one of the class; and make the affair the occasion of an unusual all-community festival, with the children as active assistants.

During the past 10 years women employees of automobile factories increased 1408 per cent.

PLASTER SAINTS

By Frederic Arnold Kummer

"I'll put these in your safe here overnight," he said.

"Yes," remarked Blair, rising. "We'll want them in the morning. I'm obliged to motor back to Southampton now, but I'll meet you at the office tomorrow about noon. You'd better have your things with you. We can take the Congressional at 3:30 o'clock. See about our seats, will you, and send word to Babcock to meet us at the train? He'd better go along."

When Blair had gone, Douglas sat for at least an hour thinking. He was quite alone; Blair had taken his Japanese servant to the country with him, and Douglas took his meals at the restaurant in the building. The various studios were cared for by a corps of maids; he therefore was under no necessity of employing a servant of his own.

Blair, with the long drive to Southampton ahead of him, had left early. It was only half-past ten when Douglas got up from his chair and went to the small wall safe in which Mr. Blair sometimes kept private papers or the rarer of his collection of gems. These, however, had all been removed to a deposit vault for the summer, and the safe was quite empty. Placing the large linen envelope containing the contracts and other evidence in a drawer, Douglas swung the door of the safe shut. He was mentally ill at ease; it annoyed him to think he had, in any degree, lost Mr. Blair's confidence by speaking as he had to Jean. True, there was no way in which Carrington could escape now, but Douglas realized that he had been guilty of talking too much; an offense in business matters which it was not easy to forgive.

He had just closed the safe door when the telephone bell rang, and the operator downstairs told him that there was a gentleman who wished to see him.

"Who is it?" asked Douglas, in surprise.

"The name is Matthews—James Matthews. He says he has a very important message for Mr. Blair."

"Mr. Blair is not here."

"He says it is absolutely necessary that he see you. He comes from Mr. Scott."

Telling the girl to send Mr. Matthews up, Douglas went down the hallway to the studio door. A little later the clanging of the bronze knocker told him that his visitor had arrived. Douglas admitted him at once.

A short, muscular man, with a stubby dark mustache, entered the hall, closing the door behind him.

"Is this Mr. Kenyon?" he asked.

"Yes," said Douglas, frowning. "What do you want with me?"

"Mr. Scott of Harrison and Scott, asked me to show you this at once," replied the man, taking something from the pocket of his coat. What it was Douglas never knew. A liquid spray of some sort struck him full in the face, he was conscious of a pungent, smarting odor, which took away his breath, a million red-hot needles seemed to pierce his eyeballs, and before he could gasp out a cry of alarm his visitors had seized him by the throat and was slowly choking him into insensibility. He struggled with all his force, but the grip on his throat was inexorable. In a few seconds he had been dragged through the doorway leading to the big studio room and thrown, face downward, on a couch. The acrid fumes of the liquid which had been dashed into his face had rendered him half insensible, he offered little resistance as his assailant whipped a cord tightly about his wrists, tying them behind his back. A moment later his ankles had been similarly bound, and he lay helpless.

The man left him at once, and Douglas heard him going rapidly through the other rooms of the apartment. Thoughts of the documents in the wall safe made him desperate; he remembered that while he had closed the safe door, locking it, he had not, in his haste to answer the telephone call, swung into place the wooden panel in the wainscoting which concealed the location of the safe from view. The man could not fail to find it at once. Would he be able to open it? Such questions would be the merest of playthings in the hands of an expert, safe opener. Even now, in the stillness of the place, he heard the faint click made by the tumblers as the burglar swiftly revolved the knob of the combination. Douglas thought of him as a burglar, in search, perhaps, of some of Mr.

Blair's gems, and hoped devoutly that this might be the case. Something, however, told him that the man was after other game; that his purpose was to obtain the very papers which he, Douglas Kenyon, had placed in the safe but a short time before. His anger with himself for having confided in Jean Bronson increased tenfold. Carrington and his associates, facing criminal charges of the most serious nature, had evidently made up their minds to strike back, to save themselves from the prosecution they knew to be inevitable. It was a bold move, and one of which he believed the austere Mr. Carrington scarcely capable, but of the latter's associates he knew little save that they were in a desperate plight from which they would naturally attempt to escape at any cost. How had they known that the evidence they sought was to be found here in his keeping? A shrewd guess, perhaps, but unfortunately a correct one. To learn that he was alone in the studio was a simple matter; any servant in the place could have supplied that information, while the thief, watching at the door, could have seen Mr. Blair's departure with his own eye. His slowly returning sense of smell told him that the liquid which had been sprayed into his face, choking and blinding him, was merely a strong solution of ammonia. The darkness of the hall, lit as it was only by a soft-shaded hanging lantern, had prevented him from seeing the squirt gun which his visitor took from his pocket until it was too late. Now he was powerless to do anything at all. The man making an attempt to open the safe would inevitably succeed, would depart, as he came, in peace, taking with him all chance of criminal proceedings against Mr. Carrington and his associates. Douglas groaned aloud; he could not speak, call for help, because a handkerchief had been tightly thrust into his mouth. Presently, after what seemed an interminable wait, he heard some one approaching the couch on which he lay.

"I'm going now, Mr. Kenyon," a suave voice said. "You can stay right where you are until morning." A moment later Douglas heard the outer door of the apartment close softly, and he was left alone with his thoughts. They could not well have been more bitter ones.

When Douglas reached their destination and were about to enter the house, Jean saw a short, stocky built man, who was standing near the door, step forward and speak to her grandfather. A few words passed between them; Jean thought she heard Mr. Kenyon's name mentioned, but could not be sure, then the man handed a package to Mr. Carrington and vanished into the darkness. It was a long, bulky envelope, and her grandfather swiftly thrust it into the pocket of the light summer overcoat he invariably wore. Then the three of them passed into the house.

There was no appreciable change in the patient's condition, one of the nurses told them, and they went into the library on the second floor for a little chat with Mrs. Carrington Jr., and the doctor.

"He is still unconscious," the doctor said, "but I am in hope that he will rally, regain his faculties, at any moment. You had best remain at his side, Mr. Carrington, until he does so. I need not disguise from you the fact that your son is in a very critical condition."

Joshua Carrington's hands trembled as he drew off his overcoat and threw it across one of the library chairs. Mrs. Bronson also removed her wrap, a costly bit of summer fur, and followed her father to the sick man's room. Jean remained where she was. A stony indifference filled her.

"Will you let me know, Aunt Louise," she said to Mrs. Joseph Carrington, who had remained behind for a moment, "when my uncle's condition makes it possible for him to see anyone?"

Mrs. Carrington nodded and hurried out. Her eyes were red from weeping.

CHAPTER XI.
JEAN ENTERS THE FIGHT.

ON the night upon which Douglas Kenyon was bound and gagged and the evidence against Joshua Carrington and his associates of complicity in a huge plot to advance the price of sugar stolen from Oliver Blair's apartment, Jean Bronson was sitting at home with her mother anxiously awaiting the latest reports from the bedside of her Uncle Joseph. The younger Mr. Carrington, after improving rapidly for several days, had suffered a relapse; the bullet, which had passed through his lungs, had apparently left a poisoned trail, and the patient had been sinking all day. It was not until late in the evening, however, that the physicians in attendance became alarmed, and Jean and her mother were momentarily expecting a message that would summon them to his bedside.

At a little after eleven Mr. Joshua Carrington was announced. He did not leave his limousine, but sent word to his daughter and granddaughter to join him at once. Jean and her mother went out to the car, pale with apprehension.

"Is Joseph worse?" Mrs. Bronson asked quickly, as she and Jean got into the machine.

"He is no better," Mr. Carrington said. "The Lord's will be done. I thought it would be best for you all to be with him tonight. He has a high fever, but Dr. Williams hopes that he may rally before morning. Should pneumonia develop, in his weakened condition, I am afraid there would be little hope."

"My poor brother," Mrs. Bronson muttered. "To think that such a man, so good, so straightforward all his life, should be singled out as a victim by this worthless woman. I cannot understand it."

"Death loves a shining mark," quoth Mr. Carrington sentimentally. "We can only trust to divine mercy."

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Littlest Bear Is Lonesome.

By Thornton W. Burgess

LITTLEST BEAR, who had run away, took a long nap in the tree which she had climbed. When at last she awoke, she didn't remember at first that she had run away. She had had a good nap, and she was feeling fine. She looked around for Brother and Sister, and at first she didn't know what to make of it when she couldn't find them anywhere in that big tree. Then she remembered. Such a queer feeling as she had when she realized that she was all alone.

At first it was a very fine feeling. At least she tried to think it was. "I can do just as I please now," said she. "I don't have to stay up in a tree unless I want to. I can go where I please when I please. I guess Mother Bear is sorry now that she treated me the way she did. Yes, sir; I guess she is sorry. And I guess Brother and Sister wish they had treated me better. I guess they wish they hadn't grinned at me when I had to stay up in that tree while they were feasting on fish."

Littlest Bear scrambled down the tree. When she reached the ground, she sat down and tried to decide which way to go. There really was no choice. It didn't make any difference which way she went. You see she was so completely lost that she hadn't the least idea where she was. One direction was as good as another.

How to Have Beautiful Hair

To be charming and attractive you must have beautiful hair. Beautiful hair is not a matter of luck. It is simply a matter of care. You can have beautiful hair if you shampoo it properly. Proper shampooing is what brings out all the real life and lustre, the natural wave and color, and makes it soft, fresh and luxuriant.

Your hair simply needs frequent and regular washing to keep it beautiful, but it cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soap. The free alkali, in ordinary soap, soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it. This is why millions of women, everywhere, use Mulsified Coconut Oil Shampoo. This clear, pure, and entirely greaseless product cannot possibly injure, and does not dry the scalp or make the hair brittle, no matter how often you use it. Two or three teaspoonsful of Mulsified will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and has the appearance of being much thicker and heavier than it really is. It leaves the scalp soft and the hair fine and silky, bright, fresh-looking and fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified Coconut Oil Shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive and a four ounce bottle lasts for months.

So presently Littlest Bear wouldn't admit it to herself, off aimlessly. She wandered nevertheless it was true. She way and that way, stopping to pretend that she was glad examine whatever caught her eye. Sister were not around. It was afternoon, and the more she kept thinking pleasant there in the Green Forest, the more she kept thinking Littlest Bear poked her little nose into hollow stump holes in the ground, and she was hungry. She tried not look at everything new the look of her stomach, but her across. She was in a strange which made her think of it. She of the Green Forest, and there up a few little roots, and those many things to see. But she didn't know where

But after a while Littlest Bear began to miss Brother and Sister. She felt just like having a playmate, but there was no one to romp with. Always she had had some play with, and she really didn't know how to play by herself. Littlest Bear was growing lonesome.

At first it was a very fine feeling. At least she tried to think it was. "I can do just as I please now," said she. "I don't have to stay up in a tree unless I want to. I

FROM THE RITTLING WHEAT.
WHEN Lawrence Wheat, the comedian, first went to New York from his home in West Virginia, with intent to go on the stage, he had for awhile rather rough sledding. After he had played small parts in several unimportant productions he heard that a leading manager was casting a troupe for a new farce. His informant told him there was a part in the play which, in his opinion, Wheat was well qualified to undertake.

The young Virginian lost no time in calling on the manager. He succeeded in fighting his way past the office boy to the inner office where the great man sat at his desk. Wheat told his name and voiced his ambition.

"I never heard of you before," said the manager. Are you an actor?"

"I am," said Wheat.

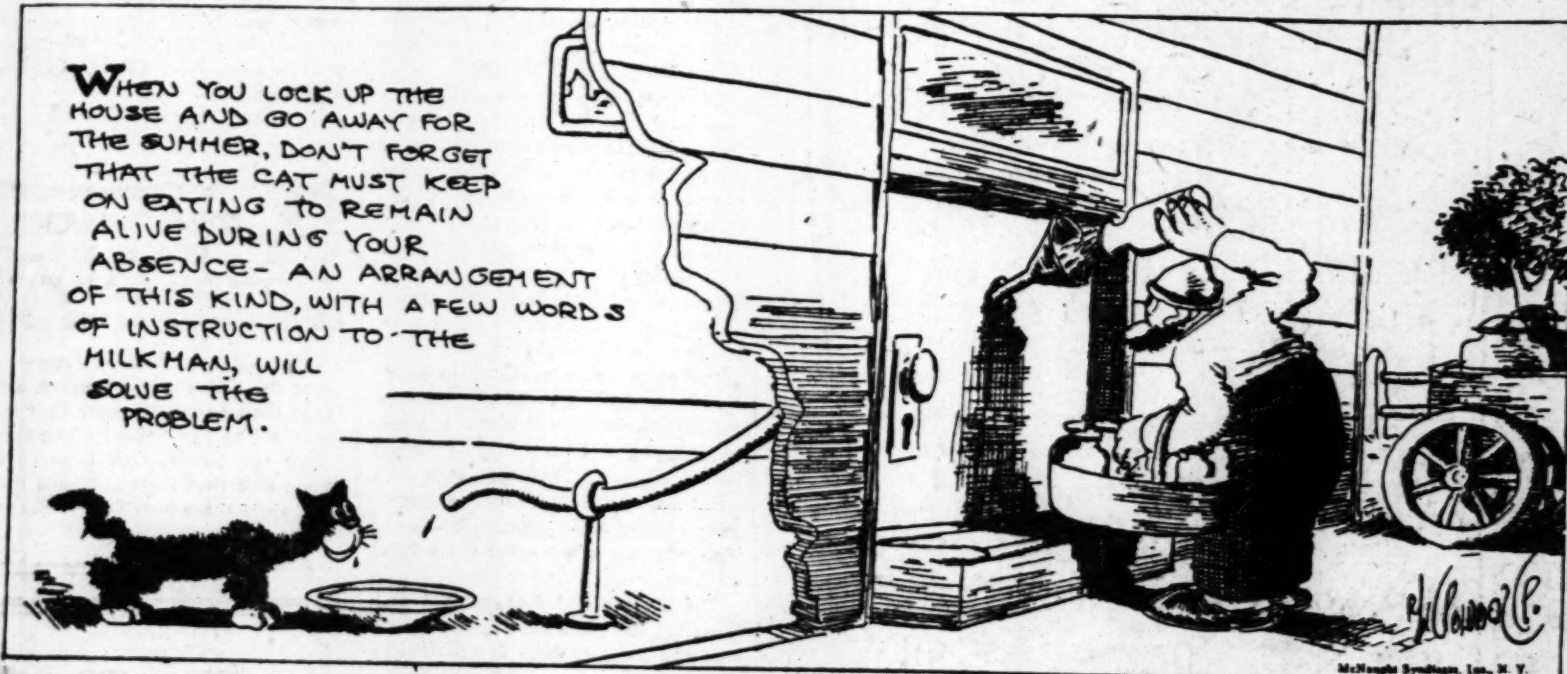

"Well," said the manager, "you don't look like an actor to me." "I don't want to look like an actor," said Wheat. "It's tough enough to have to be one."

MORE WITNESSES SAY MRS. CROKER WAS MRS. MARONE

Wife of Northampton Attorney Corroborates Husband's Story Woman in Court Visited Their Home

IDENTIFIED BY WOMAN OF ANOTHER TOWN

By the Associated Press.
DUBLIN, June 12.—Additional witnesses testified in court here today that Mrs. Bula Croker, widow of Richard Croker Sr., and Mrs. G. R. Marone were one and the same persons. The testimony was given at the continuance of the case brought by the Croker children to break the will of the former. The many children on the ground that his second wife had unduly influenced him against them.

Mrs. Ethel C. White, daughter of Croker, as intervenor in the case, alleges that Bula Edmonds, married Marone in Northampton, Mass., in the autumn of 1911 and was his wife when she took the name of Croker.

Mrs. Addie, wife of a Northampton attorney, who was cross examined yesterday, corroborated her husband's evidence today and positively identified Mrs. Bula Croker as the Mrs. Marone who, from May to late in June, 1912, often at the Addie home.

Margaret McDonald of Moncton, N. B., who formerly owned a women's tailoring business, testified that she had employed Marone as a tailor, that he had introduced a wife to her and that the couple lived at George Allen's house, a block away. The witness saw Marone often from April to June, 1912, and in September of that year. Marone visited her house and expressed her sympathy over the death of Mr. McDonald.

The next time she saw the woman, she testified, was with Croker June, 1914, in the dining room hotel at Saratoga Springs. Her was dressed differently and looked stouter, but was undoubtedly the same person as the Mrs. Marone of Moncton. The witness said she recognized her voice and her peculiar gait. She turned in her as the witness had noticed she at Moncton. Mrs. McDonald testified that the Mrs. Bula Croker court was the same person, and her appearance approximated during her stay in Moncton closely than it did at Saratoga Springs.

On cross-examination the witness said that as far back as 1915, she was shown by a friend a newspaper picture of Mrs. Croker as "Indian Princess," who had died. This is no Indian Princess. The wife of my Italian tailor."

Mrs. Elroy, who was employed by Mrs. McDonald's millinery department while Marone was engaged in the tailoring department, also testified Mrs. Croker as Mrs. Marone.

Testimony on State Law.
Attorney Campbell of Boston called to give evidence as to the state law of Massachusetts regarding proof of marriage. There were places in the State where a marriage might be registered and central office for such registration.

The case for the intervenor closed after Mrs. White had been called and questioned on a point.

Counsel for Mrs. Bula Croker then handed in a document stating that the presumption of the validity of her marriage to Richard Croker had not been rebutted by legal evidence of any previous marriage, as there was no evidence in Massachusetts marriage contracts, effected by agreement and acknowledgment.
